STRICTER RULES TO GOVERN DOUKHOBORS

Ottawa Ready to Help Settlement Of Oshawa Strike

Federal Labor Department Officers Will Assist in Efforts to Bring General Motors and Idle Workers Together, Rogers Tells Commons When Woods-worth Inquires

Hepburn Asked For Mounties

Ottawa, April 9.—Services of the Dominion Labor Department will be available immediately to assist in a settlement of the Oshawa motor strike, Labor Minister Norman Rogers told the House of Commons today.

At the same time Justice Minister Lapointe revealed he had sent Mounted Police to Toronto after two telephone calls and a telegram from Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

Mr. Hepburn had stated violence was expected at any minute and at that time he had been told officials of the company had been forcibly prevented from entering their own offices.

After reading the telegram from Premier Hepburn requesting mounted police, Mr. Lapointe said "the same action would have been taken had the request come from any other province."

NO HIRING ACTS
Mr. Lapointe said he was pleased to hear a remark just made by J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.P. leader, that no violation of the laws of Canada was contemplated at Oshawa.

"I hope both labor and employers will show to the world that disorder and illegality will never be used as an industrial weapon in Canada," said Mr. Lapointe.

The strike question was raised by Mr. Woodsworth, who moved adjournment of the House to do so.

Opening his remarks, Mr. Woodsworth said he wished to call the attention of the Commons to "the grave situation developing at Oshawa." He said the issue seemed to be the refusal of the General Motors Corporation to negotiate with trade unions but only with their own employees.

MAYOR'S DECLARATION
The mayor of Oshawa, continued the C.C.P. leader, claimed it was his responsibility to maintain law and order. The mayor had said he was opposed to the introduction of police to Oshawa, claiming the strikers were peaceful and were maintaining law and order. The mayor also had protested the interference of Premier Hepburn.

France Decides On Cheap Franc

Many Tourists Will Be Attracted, Say Leaders As Swing to Lower Rate Stirs Financial Circles; Franc Now 22.40 to Dollar

Associated Press
Paris, April 9.—The French treasury has decided on a cheap franc to attract tourists to France this summer, financial circles disclosed today as the currency rate plunged downward toward the low of 22.96 francs to the dollar agreed on in the tripartite monetary agreement.

A rate of 22.96 to the dollar is the equivalent of 4.277 cents to the franc.

"The biggest tourist season since the 'golden twenties' is expected," financial sources predicted.

With this expectation, the commission charged with guarding the franc's rate has decided to offer the cheapest franc in four years, it was said. This three-man body, backed by unrestricted authority to regulate the currency under the new monetary laws, may not choose to let the franc hit the 22.96-cent low, but experts predicted it might remain near that figure.

The dollar closed officially at 22.40

TO SHIP PARTS DURING STRIKE

Ambulance and Milk Truck Repairs Provided From Oshawa Motor Plant

Canadian Press
Oshawa, Ont., April 9.—First attempt to resume operations at the strike-paralyzed General Motors plant here was promised for tomorrow, when company officials said the parts department would be opened for business.

The parts building was picketed today. Hugh Thompson, Committee for Industrial Organization leader in charge of union activities, said decision would be made later on whether the strikers would permit reopening of the parts department.

FOR UTILITIES
"We have made an agreement with General Motors that parts necessary for ambulances, trucks, milk trucks and other utilities transport machines may be taken from the plant without interference," Thompson said. "This does not cover parts for passenger cars."

OFFICE STAFF AT WORK
An agreement was made today between H. R. Brown of General Motors of Canada Limited and C. H. Millard, president of the United Automobile Workers' Union, whereby twenty male office employees of the parts department returned to work through the picket lines maintained by the 3,700 strikers.

At about 7.15 a.m., as the strike entered its second day, the picket line at the parts department was increased from thirty to 100, and presented a closely-knit obstruction to office workers who had shown they intended to enter the buildings.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Millard told the picketers the office workers were to be allowed to return to work. "It is to your advantage that when this

Grain Growers' Outlook Bright

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 9.—Agricultural experts today scanned optimistic indications that prairie farmers will increase their wheat acreage this year and that western grain fields have received more moisture precipitation than a year ago.

Rising prices, shrinking world supplies and growing needs of war-ravaged nations have given rise to belief that, barring unforeseen adverse factors, the nation's grain growers should enjoy a more profitable season than last year.

The financial commission charged with guarding the franc rate, after a conference with Finance Minister Vincent Auriol and Emile Labeyrie.

Canadians In Jail In France

Associated Press
Perpignan, France, April 9.—Five Canadians, convicted by a police court of attempting to enter Spain to enlist with the Spanish government army, were sentenced today to twenty days in prison.

They will have to serve only five days, however. They had spent fifteen days of their sentences in jail waiting to come to trial.

The Canadians were listed as William Gordon, Alexander MacLare and Peter Ambrosiak of Montreal, and Sundsten Atanan and Johnny Dendy of Toronto.

ON SOUTHERN FRONT
To the south a semi-circular trap of men and war machines was all but set, according to a report from Madrid.

Australia's Davis Cup Tennis Stars Visit Victoria

Favored by many critics to win the Davis Cup, emblematic of world tennis supremacy, this year, Australia's crack squad was snapped by The Times cameraman today aboard the liner Niagara. The Aussies stopped off for the day in Victoria, leaving on this afternoon's boat for Seattle en route to Mexico City for their opening round engagement in the North American zone play. Those in the above picture, from left to right, are: Jack Crawford, John Bromwich, Vivian McGrath, Cliff Sproule, non-playing captain, and Adrian Quist. Story on team will be found on Page 11.

Loyalists Gain On Rebel Positions Around Madrid

Fiercest Fighting in Spanish Capital's Five-months' Siege Seen as Government Forces, Backed By New Planes and Tanks, Score Advances

Madrid, April 9.—In fighting such as Madrid has not seen since General Francisco Franco's forces pounded their way to the city's gates five months ago, Spain's government armies slashed tonight at the fringe of insurgent positions about the capital.

A strange, new four-motored bomber, swift diving fighting planes and fleets of fast tanks backed the government's infantrymen—ready at last, they believed, to break the long and bitter siege.

GAINS AT PARK
The government announced advances of great importance in these Madrid-edge sectors.

1. The Casa de Campo, spacious park, formerly the playground of royalty, on the west side of Madrid.
2. Along the Coruna highway which borders it, leading from Madrid to Spain's northwestern tip.
3. In Carabanchel, skirting the southwest of the capital.

4. In University City, the "model educational suburb in the northwest part of Madrid."
In all these sectors, Franco's men and his big guns have been entrenched for five months, menacing, bombing, but never capturing—Madrid.

HILL IS SURROUNDED
Garabitas Hill in the Casa de Campo district of western Madrid—from which insurgents have been shelling the city for weeks—was reported surrounded by government troops.

The bridge over the Rio Manzanares, the insurgents' communication line with their University City forces in northwestern Madrid, was under fire.

The loyalist advance paralleled insurgent successes in the drive toward Bilbao, Basque headquarters, near the Bay of Biscay. The forces of General Emilio Mola were reported in the suburbs of Durango, key to the last line defenses of Bilbao.

General Jose Mija, commander of the capital's defenses, personally directed the attack on the Madrid front—which some sources regarded as a possible prelude to a change in the government's tactics in that area.

Search For Two Men Is Pressed

Police Hunting For G. Fawcett and V. Campbell, Who Escaped From Oakalla

Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 9.—City police today said they had received an underworld "tip" which led them to believe Gordon Fawcett and Vernon Campbell, escaped Oakalla Jail prisoners, were not in Vancouver.

Officers did not disclose the source of their information, nor whether they had learned where the two men, who made their getaway from the prison last Sunday evening, were in hiding.

Despite the "tip" officers continued their search within the city limits and numerous anonymous reports concerning the fugitives' activities were investigated overnight.

ABDUCTED GIRL FOUND ON ROAD

Four-year-old Dolores Snyder Located in Los Angeles After Kidnapping From in Front of Family Home

Associated Press
Los Angeles, April 9.—Police said today Dolores Snyder, four, reported to have been abducted from in front of her home, was found several miles from the residence.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Snyder, who operate a grocery store, was playing at the curb before her home in south Los Angeles, police reported, when a man in a black sedan drove up.

He leaped from the car, snatched Dolores and threw her into the machine. Then he drove away, with the child screaming hysterically, police said.

Permanent Solution, Not Temporary Policing, Is B.C.'s Aim, Ottawa Told

MAY REOPEN FIRE ISSUE

Oak Bay Seeking Renewal of Discussion on Protection With City

Efforts to reopen negotiation on the fire protection question are indicated in a letter from Oak Bay to the City Council received at the City Hall today.

The municipality, in its communication, places before the city suggestions for supplementary service in case Oak Bay establishes its own fire department as well as questions over Victoria's willingness to continue to provide complete protection for the municipality.

In the city's last letter to Oak Bay, Victoria stated it was closing Duchess Street hall and would provide temporary service from Yates Street to Oak Bay for a period of six months after the expiration of the agreement existing at that time.

NEW STAND

Oak Bay's letter to the city follows:

"Since receiving your letter of February 9, we have had some discussions with the fire underwriters. They intimate that, if you agree to reopen your No. 2 hall (Duchess Street), thereby giving better protection to a large portion of the city, they would prefer us to continue the arrangements existing last year.

"Will you therefore be good enough to let us know whether you are prepared to reopen No. 2 hall in the near future, if we undertake to pay you $15,000 a year? As stated in previous correspondence that amount is our absolute maximum for such service.

"In the second place, are you willing to continue indefinitely the present agreement based on Yates Street at $1,000 a month, subject to reasonable notice of termination (say six months) by either party?

SUPPLEMENTARY SERVICE
Further, if we install our own fire department, would you be willing to give us supplementary protection when called for, and if so, on what terms? Occasions might arise when we should need apparatus additional to our own, but they would be rare. We should prefer to pay for such assistance according to each turnout.

"Arrangements might also be made for us to assist you with our department, if you so desire, but we do not ask you for a decision on this point at the moment.

"As prices of equipment are advancing and it seems desirable for all parties concerned to reach a speedy decision, we request a definite reply to each of our inquiries by April 14, if at all possible."

The letter appears over the signature of R. F. Blandy, municipal clerk.

Telephone Message Makes Thieves Flee

Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 9.—A woman's curiosity foiled an attempted burglary here today.

Mrs. J. H. Humphries saw a light in an adjacent house and telephoned to learn whether her neighbors had returned from an out-of-town visit.

When the telephone rang next door, Mrs. Humphries heard a rear door slam and saw two men running down the lane.

Police said the house had been ransacked, but apparently nothing was stolen.

Tornado Roars Through Miami

Miami, Fla., April 9.—A tornadoic wind reared with a severe electrical storm through Miami's southwest residential section before dawn today, injuring a number of persons, demolishing a frame dwelling and damaging several others.

It was the second such disturbance along the coast this week. A tornadoic blow Tuesday damaged small buildings and other property at Oakland Park.

Today's twister cut a path about two blocks wide over a two-mile area and passed out into Biscayne Bay.

Premier Pattullo, in Reply to Lapointe's Statement to Commons All Federal Forces Available If New Violence Breaks Out, Says Government Here Studying Complete New Set-up and Soon May Make Suggestions to Dominion

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 9.—Policing was not the solution for the Doukhobor problem in British Columbia, Premier T. D. Pattullo commented today when shown an Ottawa dispatch quoting Justice Minister Lapointe as having told the House of Commons today the Dominion would throw all its forces behind the provincial government if a request were received for aid in solving disorders in the Doukhobor country.

"You could put a thousand police in there and it still would not solve the problem," Premier Pattullo said.

St. Lawrence Open Soon

Canadian Press
Montreal, April 9.—The St. Lawrence River is expected to be open to navigation in another eight or ten days, marine officials here said today.

NEW LEADING MAN IN MOVIE

E. Edwards Takes Over Part in "Murder Goes North" Refused By Bob Allen

With a new leading man, a readjusted cast and another actor on his way here by plane from Hollywood, Central Films Limited was getting well into production of "Murder Goes North," its eighth locally-made picture, at the Willows studio today.

Bob Allen, who arrived in Victoria two days ago to take the leading role in the picture, yesterday declined the part and will leave shortly for Hollywood.

Edgar Edwards, six-foot-three author-actor who wrote the script of the company's last picture and took one of the main parts in it, has stepped up into the top role, playing opposite Sheila Bromley.

Walter Byron is on his way here by plane from California to take over the part originally assigned to Mr. Edwards. He will play opposite Dorothy Bradshaw.

Work on the picture started yesterday afternoon and was only slightly delayed by Mr. Allen's action. Today the company was shooting interiors in a set representing the living room of a ranch house.

Frank McDonald, loaned to Central Films by Warner Brothers, is directing the movie, in which Rintintin Jr., celebrated dog star, has an important place.

"Murder Goes North" is a Royal Canadian Mounted Police story with its location supposedly in the foothills of the Rockies. Island scenery will be used throughout.

This morning Mr. Edwards sat in the Dominion Hotel barber shop in the red tunic and yellow-striped breeches of a Mountie sergeant. "Why go to the movies when you can get them right in your own shop?" laughed barber Bill Inkpen.

New Rumors About Struggle In Russia

European Newspapers Carry Reports, But No Military Coup Against Stalin, Warsaw Hears; Army to Control G.P.U. After "Purge"

Canadian Press from Havas
Warsaw, April 9.—Reliable reports from Moscow today gave no basis whatever for a variety of sensational rumors concerning an alleged military coup against the government in Moscow.

Difficulties between the army and the G.P.U. (Secret Police) had been settled, it was reported here, with the former victorious.

NO POLICE REQUEST

It was not the province's present intention to ask for federal police aid.

The Premier on Monday will see British Columbia Police Inspector John MacDonald, who is coming to the coast from Nelson to report to the government on last Sunday's incendiary fires which burned schools and community halls.

Ottawa, April 9.—If requested, Justice Minister Lapointe told the House of Commons today, the Dominion will throw all its forces behind the British Columbia Government in coping with what

W. K. Essling, Conservative, Kootenay West, described as a "reign of terror" among Doukhobors in the Nelson district.

The minister said no request for assistance had been received from the Pacific province, but perhaps one could be expected.

Mr. Essling said the whole Nelson district had been terrorized by a fanatical group of Doukhobors. Only a few nights ago, schools were burned or dynamited, seven being demolished. Public halls and churches were under guard, the whole situation being intolerable.

NO REGARD FOR LIVES
In burning and dynamiting, the Doukhobors had no regard for human lives, Mr. Essling said. The British Columbia police had done their best to handle the situation, but it apparently was beyond them. One reason for their failure was the fact the Doukhobors would not give information or evidence, telling the police to go and find it themselves.

Mr. Essling asked if the Dominion would confer with British Columbia and try to end the reign of terror by joint action.

Conservative Leader Bennett said the Nelson situation beggared description. It was so serious it was almost unbelievable.

JOINT ACTION NEEDED

The Minister of Justice said he realized the seriousness of the situation "and I may say if our assistance is being sought by the province, I will be pleased to submit the matter to the government with my recommendation."

British Columbia had not requested assistance, Mr. Lapointe said, although it seemed to be one of the serious cases where joint action was necessary to maintain law and order.

It is settled the work goes right ahead as usual," he said.

No women among the parts department office staff will be allowed back to work, strikers said. Office workers in the general administrative building have not been interfered with since the strike was called yesterday.

POLICE IN TORONTO

As fresh pickets moved into the lines before the company's workshops there was no indication general negotiations would be resumed. In nearby Toronto 300 police were ready to hurry to Oshawa should trouble arise.

Along with Premier Mitchell Hepburn's stand that the government concurred in the attitude of the company, General Motors remained adamant against dealing with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Premier Hepburn yesterday denounced the C.I.O. and "paid propagandists from the United States." He gave unqualified stand of the government behind the company's position "to remain clear of the domination of professional labor profiteers of the C.I.O."

MAYOR SPEAKS

A mass meeting of strikers last night heard Mayor Alex Hall of Oshawa declare that "enforcement of law and order is the duty of the municipality" and that a special force "cannot come into this city without civic request, and they are not going to come in here until there is a desperate need for men."

General Motors was tossed a challenge by Organizer Thompson at a mass meeting when he said: "Open your gates tomorrow with an invitation for men to go to work and see how many go." For Premier Hepburn he had this: "Send 50,000 militia in here, but General Motors will sign an agreement before it builds another motor car in Canada."

TO MEET COMMITTEE

H. J. Carmichael, vice-president and general manager of the automobile corporation, in a statement at Toronto said: "General Motors of Canada is not opposing organization by labor, but will not under any condition negotiate with any person or organization other than their own employees' committee, and with them will confer at any time."

SHOWDOWN SOON

Toronto, April 9. (Canadian Press).—Showdown in the Oshawa strike of General Motors workers will be reached tomorrow or Sunday when the company attempts to ship parts from the plant, Premier Mitchell Hepburn predicted today.

"Repair parts will have to be moved tomorrow or the next day," said the Premier, whose determination to throw his government's support behind the company was announced yesterday. "That is when the showdown will come."

Prevention of moving of parts from the factory, he said, "of course, would be illegal and if the company wants to ship parts they will get all the protection from this government that they require," declared the government head.

He said General Motors of Canada Ltd. had not requested protection with the idea of opening the plant before a settlement with its 3,700 striking workers was reached. Mr. Hepburn said yesterday the government would assure the safety of any workers who wished to return to their jobs when the shops were opened.

"The company has not expressed any desire to set the wheels going despite the strikers—but it may come," he asserted.

Within a few blocks of the Premier's office in the Legislative Building at Queen's Park a force of 175 police officers was concentrated, ready to answer a rush call to Oshawa, thirty-five miles away, should trouble develop.

Oshawa, Ont., April 9.—Four representatives of the United Automobile Workers of America Union left here today for Toronto, where they were scheduled to meet Premier Hepburn in his office and discuss the strike of General Motors workers.

Union heads said the men would tell the Premier of causes of the strike, referring particularly to "low wages and season occupation and distress as a result of those two factors."

PROTEST FORESEEN
Canadian Press
New York, April 9.—The New York Sun, published by a native of Ontario, in its leading editorial today generally applauded the stand taken by the Premier of that province in the General Motors strike at Oshawa, but predicted his allusion to anarchy in the United States almost certainly would provoke protests from the New Deal.

The newspaper, anti-Roosevelt in politics and published by William T. Dewart, a native of Fenelon Falls, Ont., said Premier Hepburn's assertion of last night that John L. Lewis "agitators" had brought the United States "almost into a state of anarchy" may bring representations from the Secretary of State in addition to protests from elsewhere in pro-Roosevelt ranks.

LONDON REPORT
Traders found a reassuring note because big mining and financial houses abstained from selling shares. Prices rallied near noon on support from London.

Among stocks to drop sharply in the morning were Anglo-American Mining Corporation, which dropped from yesterday's 94 shillings to 88, Western Reefs Exploration & Development, down to 80 shillings from 78, West Rand Investment Trust, at 20 from 28, and West Witwatersrand, 280 from 325.

Calcutta, India, April 9.—The stock exchange here decided today to reopen April 12 after being closed yesterday because of a runaway bull market in iron and grains induced by a world rise in commodity prices.

Outstanding accounts were ordered settled by the end of business today.

orable market for the stock, had been instituted under the Securities Act and urged another inquiry under the broader Companies Act.

While the Fraser report made "sweeping readings" for those interested in the welfare of British Columbia's mining industry, it had been gratifying to note that "any implied suspicion of unfair dealing does not apply to all the directors (of Hedley Amalgamated Gold Mines), he said.

The statement continued: "Not all the facts have come out... and those especially who bought stock from the wise ones who had plenty of information to warrant them in unloading are not going to be easily calmed."

DIRECTORS TO MEET
Frank Parsons, secretary of Hedley Amalgamated, announced he was endeavoring to get the directors of the company together to discuss the Fraser findings and that a statement would be issued after it had been studied.

EXCHANGE STATEMENT
Vancouver, April 9.—The Vancouver Stock Exchange will issue its own report of trading in stock of Hedley Amalgamated Gold Mines Ltd. after the provincial government has completed its investigations and published its report, the exchange said in a statement issued today over the signature of its president, F. E. Hall.

The Stock Exchange said that from the report made for the British Columbia Government by Commissioner G. L. Fraser on Hedley Amalgamated trading and from the "indications as to what the future reports are to contain, we are of the opinion that the proper matters to be investigated are being forgotten."

The exchange said that on February 23 it had addressed a telegram to Hon. Gordon Sloan, then Attorney-General of the province, and to Hon. George Pearson, Minister of Mines, requesting that the government "speedily investigate and publish a complete report covering the whole Hedley Amalgamated situation."

ALBERTA DEBT PLAN ATTACKED

Loan Associations Send Protest to Aberhart On Scheme to Cut Principal By 50 Per Cent

Canadian Press
Edmonton, April 9.—Protest against the bill proposing a 50 per cent cut in principal of Alberta debts incurred prior to July, 1937, is made in behalf of the Mortgage Loans Association of Alberta and the Dominion Mortgage and Investment Association in a letter sent to Premier Aberhart by W. W. Evans, president of the first-named body.

The letter urges Premier Aberhart "that in the interests of the people of this province the adjustment of debts should not be undertaken by the method of confiscation proposed by that bill."

Unfavorable reaction on the welfare of Alberta people would result from such legislation, it was claimed by Mr. Evans, "through the breaking-down of confidence and the retarding of economic development."

WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO'S FALL

Mrs. Mary Haselden Dies in Vancouver Accident; P. Edge in Hospital

Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 9.—Percy Edge, thirty-nine-year-old automobile salesman who narrowly escaped death when a car he was teaching Mrs. Mary Haselden to drive went out of control and plunged over a 200-foot embankment near the University of British Columbia campus, told police today he was helpless to stop the car in its short dash to the cliff-edge because the emergency brake was out of his reach.

Edge, in a hospital here with several fractured bones and severe internal injuries, was said by hospital authorities to be "improving." They said he would likely recover from effects of the accident, which killed Mrs. Haselden almost instantly.

"The first thing I knew was when the accelerator went down and we crashed into the fence and went over the embankment," Edge told British Columbia police.

According to police reports, Mrs. Haselden, who was driving the car, attempted to make a turn, but before it was completed the car careened through a stout wooden fence and toppled over the high bank of loose sand.

M.P.'s Ready To End Session

Only Senate Moves Can Delay Prorogation; Furniture Duty Debate

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 9.—With all government measures disposed of and only some scattered tariff and estimate items standing in the way of prorogation, the brakes were jammed on the House of Commons last night when a low tariff Liberals arose in protest against upward revision of the tariff on furniture.

However, it seemed today only delay in the Senate would bar a week-end clean-up.

J. G. Ross, Liberal, Moose Jaw, declared free trade, opened the attack on the government for its decision to boost the effective immediate tariff on furniture from 27 to 33-1/3 per cent. He was supported by J. A. Glen, Liberal, Marquette, Man., who was speaking when the House adjourned.

"I don't believe," said Mr. Ross, "that a tariff can help any industry, and certainly no industry which needs protection of 35 or 40 per cent."

Mr. Ross contended that in the eighty-seven years furniture manufacturers had been operating in Canada the industry should have established itself that it could carry on without such high protection that the Canadian consumer paid $60,000,000 extra for their furniture in order that $8,000,000 might be paid in wages.

Existing tariff rates were absurd, he said, "and even more ridiculous" when introduced by those who had fought with him for free trade during election campaigns.

KILLER HUNTED IN MONTREAL

C.P.R. Guard Tells How Suspect Fired and His Pal Fell

Montreal, April 9.—A police dragnet was spread today for the gunman pal of Sam Wolman, killed by bullets intended for the guard who caught the pair burglarizing a warehouse.

Bullets intended for Constable Clarence Ball of the Canadian Pacific Railway force shot down Wolman, twenty-eight-year-old ex-convict, last night when Ball jumped into a ditch as the first of three shots rang out.

Ball surprised the pair as they were entering a grocery store warehouse on railway company property. He grappled with Wolman and before he had a chance to unholster his own gun, the officer said, Wolman's companion began shooting from the darkness.

Wolman staggered down the railway tracks and fell some 350 feet away. He had been shot twice in the head.

closing in on General Franco's Cordoba province (southern) army of 15,000, it was reported today.

The position of the insurgent force, which the government has termed largely Italian, was described as growing rapidly precarious.

The Madrid-Valencia troops lacked only two or three miles at each end of a thirty-mile stretch of the Cordoba City-Penarroya highway to complete the bottling up of Franco's army, which was defeated less than a fortnight ago at Posoblanco.

Capture of towns would leave the insurgents no way of escape unless they scattered into the mountains south of the highway.

FRENCH DOSSIER READY

Canadian Press from Havas
Paris, April 9.—A "crushing" French dossier, listing Italian violations of the Spanish neutrality accord, will be presented to the London Non-Intervention Committee if Rome formally charges France with bad faith, the newspaper Figaro reported today.

Evidence against Italy now in the hands of the French government, the newspaper declared, is so overwhelming it would justify France in demanding "the immediate withdrawal of all Italian combatants from Spain."

DURANGO CHANGES HANDS

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Border, April 9. (Associated Press).—Insurgent forces announced today an advance column of the northern army had entered the suburbs of Durango, sixteen miles from the Basque capital of Bilbao.

A communiqué received here from Salamanca said Basque government troops defending Durango were evacuating the town.

Franco's headquarters reported a column operating in the Basque Pass sector had pushed into the outlying sections of Durango.

The main body of Franco's army was reported concentrated five miles south of Durango.

Japanese Plane Sets New Mark

Associated Press
London, April 9.—The Japanese monoplane Divine Wind landed at Croydon airfield today, completing a record-breaking 9,800-mile flight from Tokyo in a little more than ninety-four hours.

Pilot Masaki Iinuma, only twenty-six years old, and Kenji Tsukagoshi, thirty-eight, wireless operator, crowned with success one of Japan's first bids for international flying honors.

The plane is entirely of Japanese make.

The Japanese fliers broke the record for a hop between Japan and Europe formerly held by the Frenchmen, Dieudonne Coste and Joseph Leba, who ten years ago flew from Paris to Tokyo in six days and twenty hours.

Ottawa Ready to Help Settlement of Oshawa Strike

The Ontario Premier, Mr. Woodworth said, had placed the power of the province 100 per cent behind General Motors.

"No, no," shouted Liberal members, "According to the morning papers," continued Mr. Woodworth. He claimed Premier Hepburn was prepared to use all the power of the province to maintain law and order and directed his attack particularly against the C.I.O.

ASKS FOR STATEMENT

"We should have a clear statement as to the Dominion Government's policy in this matter," said Mr. Woodworth.

"Mounted Police have been sent to Toronto by the Minister of Justice at the request of Premier Hepburn. We should know why, and if the situation at Oshawa is sufficiently serious to warrant sending a large force to Toronto."

It was true the C.I.O. in the United States had used the sit-down strike, but the two were by no means identical.

The sit-down strike involved trespass and might be illegal in Canada. It might be necessary to revise the law regarding it where large corporations were employers of thousands of men. It might be necessary to recognize certain vested rights on the part of the employees.

The C.I.O. was no more a United States organization than other organizations.

Alberta Session Nearing Its End

All Major Legislation Introduced; M.P.P.'s to Adjourn Next Week

Canadian Press
Edmonton, April 9.—With major debt and social credit legislation introduced, the Alberta Legislature is expected to adjourn early next week. Premier Abernethy will visit Calgary during the week-end and deliver his fortnightly address at the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute and by Monday the legislative order paper is expected to be cleared.

Yesterday a new Social Credit measure, providing for the formation of a board of members of the Legislature to select a commission to administer Social Credit Acts was introduced in the Legislature and given first reading.

It is consolidation legislation, taking in the Social Credit Measures Act and the Credit House Act, passed at the last session of the Legislature. Details of the bill were not disclosed, but it is believed to provide for payment of the basic dividends, on a monthly basis, and for the issuance of Alberta credit certificates to be handled through the credit house branches.

Awaiting royal assent are three measures which reduce interest rates by 50 per cent on provincial securities or debentures guaranteed by the government. To replace acts declared ultra vires by the courts, the Legislature yesterday adopted the measures, including the Provincial Securities Interest Act, 1937.

Militia to Man Coast Defences

Non-permanent Units to Take Over Esquimalt Fortifications This Fall

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 9.—The increase in personnel necessary to man Canada's expanded coastal defences, which are stressed in the government's present defence policy, will be drawn mainly from the non-permanent militia, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Defence, disclosed yesterday.

After October 1, manning the fortifications at Esquimalt and Halifax will become the responsibility of local militia units instead of the permanent force as at present. Provisional instructions preparatory to the change have already gone out to the district commanding officers, the minister stated.

The permanent force, which is now manning these defences and also providing instruction to the non-permanent militia, will become more exclusively instructional as the coastal defences are increased, he added. It will continue to look after maintenance of forts and equipment.

To train the non-permanent militia for their new responsibilities, it is expected the training period of units involved will be doubled this summer. They will be prepared to assume their new duties October 1.

Vimy Banquets Set For Tonight

In Cities and Towns of Canada War Veterans Commemorate Victory of 1917

Canadian war veterans today were recalling once more that achievement which twenty years ago rang through the world as one of the most brilliant of the Great War—the storming and capture of Vimy Ridge.

Second only to the Armistice in the calendar of remembrance, the battle which transferred that rampart to Canadian hands was fought April 9, 1917, and succeeding days. Its importance was further emphasized last July 26, when Canada's National Memorial atop the ridge was dedicated.

For these and other reasons, Canada's ex-servicemen were scheduled to foregather this evening in city, town and hamlet to re-live the old days and recall old comradeships. Vimy banquets are to be held everywhere.

In many respects the Battle of Vimy Ridge takes precedence over even Ypres and those bitter engagements fought during the last 100 days of the war. It marked the only occasion when the four divisions of the Canadian Corps fought in line, at the same time and on the same day. The unity of Canada was signalled in that operation.

Possession of the ridge gave its holder the key to the rich mining areas of northern France, and consequently it was a place of great strategic value.

The ridge is now a place of peace. To Canadians it is a sanctuary, for towering above its crest are the white pylons of Canada's National Memorial. It dominates the entire country around, and from it can be discerned numerous battlefields over which Canadians subsequently fought, and from which they acquired added renown.

Audience Has Good Time At Festival

Four Plays Yesterday Evening; Adjudicator Proves Popular; Children Delightful in Shakespeare Scenes

By J. K. N.
The Drama Festival becomes better as the week advances and a large audience at the Shrine Auditorium yesterday evening thoroughly enjoyed itself, with four plays, three of them locally written, and the humorous remarks and valuable advice offered by the adjudicator, Klenert Wolff, dramatic director of the Studio Theatre at the University of Washington.

Victoria is practically through with the festival now, with the exception of the intermediate entries and those local plays that are expected to reach the finals Saturday evening. The entries from Vancouver this evening and tomorrow afternoon take all the honors—and that is extremely doubtful.

Not only from a financial standpoint is the audience necessary this week, but those who attend have the entire say in the award of one of the most important cups, that presented by Mrs. Harry Currie for the most popular play. Slips are handed to members of the audience and they mark down their choice.

It was to be regretted the Beaux Arts Society's entry of "Protection," written and directed by Maurice Hummer, was withdrawn, otherwise the evening would have been one devoted entirely to locally-written plays. However, in its place was substituted "The Hundredth Trick," by the Quantock-Ridge Players, which was postponed Monday evening because of illness in the cast.

"It was pleasant here to have had the curtain open and find someone doing something," Mr. Wolff said in his adjudication of the Drama Club's presentation of "The Rattle," written and directed by Stewart G. Clark. "This action established an excellent atmosphere and one felt at ease. But the characters are wooden and they have all sorts of things to say that no one ever says, except in stories."

CHARACTERS GOOD
"Generally speaking I thought the woman (Betty Hetherington) gave a good interpretation, considering the way it was written. All the way through I thought the characters were good."

"The hysteria of Seaton (Richard Gatehouse) did not quite ring true. He didn't believe it, so we didn't. The play was very well directed, but the drums should have been toned down a little when the woman was speaking."

The soliloquy was used again in this play. (It is quite evident Mr. Wolff does not like a soliloquy. And judging by the shifting and stirring of the audience during one, he is not alone in his dislike.)

In this play a lamp was knocked over by accident and Mr. Wolff took the opportunity to advise players to react to such a mishap. He told them not to be too busy with their lines or the plot. Sometimes such an accident, if they reacted to it, put them at their ease.

"But I thought this play was well done considering the manuscript," Arthur Kerr and Bill Findlay carried other roles.

HIT WITH AUDIENCE
Vivien Combe has the happy faculty of doing well anything she attempts, and it was no doubt largely due to her direction that "The Purple Cow," by Ruby Edmunds, and presented by the Russian Ballet School, scored such a success with the audience.

"This play was exceptionally well cast," Mr. Wolff said. "Annie (Doreen Wilson) was not quite sleek and hard enough. The character of the Jew (Vaughan Barker) was well done, but he was supposed to have been a New York Jew, and so he should have been careful not to have used Cockney."

It was quite evident, Mr. Wolff said, the dancers (Dick Stursberg and

BISHOP CODY IS WELCOMED

Catholic Laity Gather to Greet Church Head

More than 500 members of the Catholic laity filed past Bishop John Cody in the Empress Hotel ballroom yesterday evening and extended to him their personal welcome to Victoria, following a most enjoyable program arranged by the Knights of Columbus of which Bishop Cody is a member.

In his talk Bishop Cody referred briefly to the question of Communism and in answer to "Should Christians Hate Communists?" said no true Christian could hate any of his fellow men.

He asked Christians to understand the social and economic conditions that bred Communism and asked them to realize that most Communists had been driven into that position. He said that love in dealing with them would be far more effective than insults.

"Although we may hate Communism, we must not hate the Communist," Bishop Cody said. "Although our Lord hated sin He always loved the sinner. As Bishop I intend to do all the good I can to every citizen of Victoria and Vancouver Island."

Frank P. Maclean, Grand Knight of the local council of the Knights of Columbus, was chairman and in his opening remarks welcomed Bishop Cody to Victoria. Speaking of the many changes of bishops in Victoria he said they remained just long enough to discover the many advantages of living in Victoria and for the laity to learn to love them when they were given their orders to leave.

LAITY'S WELCOME
On behalf of the Catholic laity Frank Doherty read a formal address of welcome. He expressed the hope the new bishop's sojourn in Victoria would be a long and happy one.

Alderman James Adam, on behalf of the City Council, and Dr. K. C. MacDonald, for the provincial government, spoke briefly. Archbishop Duke of Vancouver and Bishop Bungo were other speakers. With them on the platform were Rt. Rev. Msgr. Victor Day of Helena, Montana; Rev. J. E. Brennan, who came with Bishop Cody from Ottawa; Rev. C. J. McNeill of Vancouver; Rev. J. A. Gaudette and Rev. Carl Albury, who are attached to the staff of St. Andrew's Cathedral, and David Cody of Ottawa, father of the young bishop.

The musical part of the programme was most enjoyable and included solos by Mrs. S. J. Shanks, accompanied at the piano by Miss Margaret McKay, organist at St. Andrew's Cathedral, and Miss Wanda Spencer, organist at the Church of Our Lady, Queen of Peace, Esquimalt, who rendered a piano solo.

Many of the visiting church dignitaries who came here for Bishop Cody's installation have left for the mainland. The round of activities in honor of the new bishop, however, continues.

This morning he paid a visit to St. Louis College, where he was welcomed by the pupils and later remained to luncheon as the guests of the Christian Brothers of Ireland, who staff the school.

Lack of Radium Causes Distress

Scarcity Is One of Greatest Deterrents in Cancer Control

One of the great deterrents to better control of cancer in the province of British Columbia is the fact that the only radium available to the public is in the hands of private owners. In other words, a cancerous subject must pay a heavy fee in order to receive radium radiation. In addition the number of people that can receive this radiation is limited.

The British Columbia Cancer Foundation last year was enabled to purchase $100,000 worth of radium—three and one-half grams, to be exact. However, before this radium can be made available to the various hospitals so that citizens may receive free radiation, it must be sent to New York City to be processed, at a cost of $2,000 per gram, or a total cost of $7,000.

So it is that $7,000 is all that stands between the citizens of British Columbia and that which should be their inalienable right—free treatment for cancer!

It is to overcome such an obstacle that the United Commercial Travelers have instituted a nationwide "Coronation celebration" on Wednesday, April 14, with a two-fold purpose. One is to celebrate the occasion of the King's Coronation and the other, to raise money to further the work of the British Columbia Cancer Foundation.

A dinner dance will be held in the Empress Hotel in Victoria, at which time it is hoped that Victoria citizens will gather to have a good time, and while enjoying themselves, contribute in some measure to a project that will prove beneficial to themselves and the community.

CHINA LOSING TO SMUGGLERS

Associated Press
Washington, April 9.—The Chinese government delegate told the International Textile Conference here yesterday that smuggling by "certain unscrupulous foreign nationals" was an important factor in keeping Chinese textile workers' conditions at a low level.

"In certain cases the Chinese government is not entirely free to adjust its tariff rates for protecting its infant industry and foreign countries have taken advantage of this situation by dumping their surplus products in the Chinese market," said Z. T. Ing, Chinese representative.

"Moreover, certain unscrupulous foreign nationals have even gone so far as to smuggle their goods into China under protection of armed forces at the connivance of their own government authority, and in such enormous quantities that China has been losing $1,000,000 a week in uncollected duty."

What Was Wanted

JUST A LITTLE MORE THAN A month ago the Pattullo government was asked to make inquiries into the affairs of the Hedley Amalgamated Gold Mines Limited and to find out why, on February 23, the company's shares declined in value for no apparent reason whatever. In a very short period of time, indeed, their value dropped from more than a dollar to less than twenty cents.

The Vancouver Stock Exchange, naturally jealous of its good name and reputation for legitimate dealing, pressed for the investigation which the government, through the agency of the then Attorney-General Sloan, promptly granted. Mr. G. L. Fraser, a competent Vancouver lawyer, was appointed a commissioner and his interim report presented to Premier Pattullo on Monday of this week is now public property.

Without going into the details of Mr. Fraser's findings—he is commendably frank in his verdict that there had been serious irregularities under which the public suffered and, by implication, from which the mining industry of British Columbia may suffer also—it is permitted to emphasize the fact that the government wasted no time in following a course in conformity with the protection of the public interest.

In some quarters, of course, not surprising in a year in which an election is almost sure to be held, there has been an attempt to try to tie the government up with the rather distasteful dealings which Commissioner Fraser's report has revealed. If the metaphor may be changed, it also may be permitted to suggest that throwers of mud usually, on examining their hands, find that a good deal of it remains in them. Which means that if the Hedley affair is all the anti-Pattullo forces have to attack the present provincial administration on, their propaganda cupboard must be very much like Old Mother Hubbard's.

Down In Penticton

IN THAT DELIGHTFUL INTERIOR British Columbia city of Penticton, Dr. F. P. Patterson, provincial leader of the Conservative party, yesterday voiced his annoyance at what he termed the Pattullo government's "election loan" of $3,000,000, and the Premier's "blanket order" permitting him to borrow up to $5,000,000 without specifying the purposes for which the money was to be borrowed.

It still seems to us that the new leader of the Conservative party of British Columbia has a great deal to learn—if the term is not too offensive—in the art of political strategy. At least he is letting former Premier Bennett down badly, the former Premier Bennett who cut a sorry figure as the chief governmental executive of this great Dominion, for it was he who asked for, and got, a "blank cheque" in the cause of "peace, order, and good government"—and kept it in "good standing" until the end of a term of parliamentary service which witnessed his departure in 1935 and the advent of a government which still enjoys the largest majority in the Canadian House of Commons since Confederation.

Sunshine and Fresh Air Spring Fever Cure

MODERN SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL books do not mention spring fever. Sulphur and molasses and "yarb tea" are hardly to be found in kitchenettes or the modern family medicine chest. Yet the disease or condition for which these were the old-time remedies still exists in our streamlined civilization.

Spring fever is "the popular name for a common experience," says the Public Health Service. It is made up of a feeling of languor, a desire for more fruits and vegetables, and a longing to play hooky, from business or school, and spend the day out of doors.

No one is immune to this disease and there is no vaccine for it. It afflicts the old and the young, the office worker, the housewife and the schoolboy.

According to one physician, the condition is due to a depletion during the winter months of the body's store of calcium. Certainly the cold of winter stimulates the average person to work harder and indulge in more strenuous and interesting activity. All this uses up more mental, nervous and physical energy. When warm weather comes there is a let down in activity and energy expenditure which is most noticeable in the first days of spring.

The best remedy for spring fever does not come from medicine bottles or grandmother's yarb kettle. A modern scientific prescription for a spring fever remedy might be written as follows: Sunshine and fresh air flavored with fishing poles, golf sticks or flippers; liberal doses, to be taken as often as desired.

If we feel we must have any additional spring tonic, the Public Health Service advises us to make this the season for an annual physical examination by a physician. He can tell us whether our symptoms are due to spring fever or something more serious.

Brokers Should Be Brokers—Not Manipulators

MOST, IF NOT ALL, THE BROKER-age firms that collapsed in the 1929 crash with disastrous results to their clients were revealed to have been trading in the markets on their own account. These firms, it was shown, had been using surpluses and other credits in their clients' accounts to take speculative positions in the hope of gain for the firms' accounts.

Brokerage firms that survived the 1929 crash were almost without exception those which operated strictly on a commission basis, with no commitments in the market on the firms' accounts or on the strength of any surplus credits of clients on the firms' books. Brokerage firms which operated on this basis, so long as they saw to it that their clients' accounts were adequately protected, found themselves always in a sound liquid condition, even under the most severe tests.

These facts became so clearly established at the time, that it must come as a shock to the public to learn through the Fraser report on the Hedley Amalgamated affair that some Vancouver brokerage firms have again been playing the market in a big way for their own accounts—and even against their own clients.

The public had assumed that such practices had been stopped. It had been encouraged in this assumption by assurances that its interests in this respect had been safeguarded by the elaborate machinery set up by the securities and brokerage legislation.

Yet, the superintendent of brokers in his statement on the Fraser report is able to say it does not appear to disclose any actual offence or fraud in trading "unless there were 'wash' sales on the part of the brokers who acted as principals and brokers." This can be taken only as an admission that those responsible for brokerage legislation and control still have no adequate appreciation of the dangers of firms, which present themselves to the public as brokers, exceeding that function and "playing" or manipulating the market.

That such unethical activities, which should be definitely outlawed in this province, were a factor in the Hedley Amalgamated affair, is brought out by Mr. Fraser when he reports: "The heavy trading by brokers for their own accounts raises questions of serious concern to the public. Business men and brokers themselves who are confining activities to a strictly brokerage business are in accord that steps should be taken by the Vancouver Stock Exchange or by the government to check the abuses which are bound to arise by reason of the practice. 'In and out' trading by brokers creates a false appearance of activity 'in the market.' It is usually the first step in a 'manipulative manoeuvre.' A broker who is trading both for himself and a customer is in a position to accept a purchase for himself if it is beneficial, or to confirm the purchase to his customer if it is not. No trustee I know of is allowed in these days to occupy such a position."

So long as the department permits those whom it licenses as brokers to exceed the straight brokerage function, we shall be continuing to invite market scandals in British Columbia with the risk of clients again being wiped out by the thousands through brokers' firms collapsing in case of an unexpected market setback. That a brokerage business on a straight commission basis can be a profitable undertaking, as well as safe for its clients, is proved by the success in that field of conservative brokerage firms in both Victoria and Vancouver—firms having no interest in the market other than that of executing the orders of their clients. If market promotion or manipulation is a necessary function, it should be publicly divorced from the straight brokerage business. This is what the public has long been looking for the securities department to bring about. Surely the department should need no further education as to the urgency of this.

The "Grand Old Man"

THERE IS AN INTERESTING CON-troversy going on in several newspapers in Great Britain as to the origin of some of that country's great political leaders. One correspondent had in the back of his mind that that great statesman, William Ewart Gladstone, was cradled in the lap of Liberalism. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Long before King Edward the Seventh was in nodding distance of the Throne, Gladstone was described as "the hope of the stern unbending Tories." But William Ewart Gladstone died a great Liberal. More than fifty years ago he suffered defeat in his advocacy of the greatest democratic experiment of the Victorian era—Irish Home Rule.

Notes

Racing is called the sport of kings. A king can guess wrong without his grocer having to suffer.

The common reaction to the threat of inflation is that it is dangerous, but we shall all know which stock to buy this time.

When we see anybody spending money with careless generosity, we always know that somebody else is doing the hard work that earns it.

A pathetic figure must have been the man who heard his wife say, "Where is my hat?" just after he had burned what he thought was Junior's Easter basket.

If John L. Lewis, leader of the industrial union movement in the United States, keeps on gaining, those economic royalists and other Tories who now fear Roosevelt may pray for him to come back and be dictator.

Loose Ends

Down in the stomach of the liner in a storm it is calm and cool—and everything goes along smoothly—in a jungle of writhing copper snakes—and restless steel limbs.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MID-ATLANTIC, HALIFAX TO GLASGOW, ABOARD C.P.S. DUCHESSE OF BEDFORD.

DOWN BELOW

A HOT blast with a smell of hot grease hits you as you step inside from the deck. It comes up in a gust from the jungle of steel ladders and machinery down below and you think you are going to be sick. Especially do you think you are going to be sick when you are crammed into a tiny elevator, with room for three men only and one of them a jolly fat weighing about 300 pounds. But as the elevator sinks down into the engine room of the Duchess of Bedford the air gets cooler, the greasy smell eases off and you breathe again.

Up above there are lounges, with chairs and Chesterfields of almost sinful ease, and tall, cool drinks. Down here you are in another world, down in the very stomach of the liner, in a dungeon full of living metal, a jungle where you could get lost and never be heard of again. But it is not like the engine room of old romance, the hell-hole of Kipling and Conrad, long men fight with flame and smoke before eternal fires, to keep the steam up. You can stand in front of these giant boilers, these huge oil fires, and be almost as cool as out on deck. The good salt air pours down from the ventilating pumps and the firemen stand about at ease, the reflection of the flames below the boilers glistening on their bare skin. So long as the oil burns they have little to do but watch it. Every minute while we lounge up above in the luxurious chairs and Chesterfields, these greasy men must watch the fires and the pressure gauges. Without their watching the ship would stop, wallowing in this gale off the Irish coast, or blow up with a disagreeable scattering of valuable human material across the sea.

FIRE

THEY OPEN the firebox for you and hold a blue glass in front of it and you can see the energy that makes the ship go, the huge glowing mass of coal and oil, the fire of spirit. It is at the bow, through the blue glass the fire looks pinkish and purple, a churning cloud of living flame which would cremate you in less than half a minute.

Two feet away the engine room is cool and immaculately clean. There is hardly a place in the engine room, indeed, where you couldn't eat your lunch off the floor. Every square inch of it is washed and scrubbed up day by day by men who go about with brushes and rags as fussy as a good housekeeper.

It is a mighty chaos to the landsman—a tangle of pipes, a wilderness of live snakes, writhing in agony, of dead copper snakes that lie coiled about, all clean and glistening, of whirling wheels and mighty steel arms that move up and down, of iron hands that grip and twist. And dominating all the two propeller shafts of glistening steel, more than a foot through, polished so smooth that you can hold your hands against them as they turn. Down either side of the ship they stretch a hundred feet or more, two perfect cylinders, beautiful in form, in light and shadow, in sleek corpulence, in silent strength.

BIG BLADES

YOU FOLLOW them along through the thick iron bulkhead door, which can all be closed instantly from the bridge in less than a minute. You follow the propeller shafts along towards the stern into a quiet, chill chamber where you are close to the keel, well down below the level of that churning sea, close to the propellers themselves. Just outside that steel wall they are lashing the water, those glistening nineteen-foot blades that drive the ship irresistibly through the waves.

The ship dives bow down, you sway on the iron floor and grab a greasy railing, and outside there, past the end of the glistening columns, you can feel the propellers, thrown up nearly to the surface of the water, tremble and shudder, and the floor quivers under you. Then they go on with their regular, remorseless beat deep down in the foaming water.

The engineer in his grimy overalls explains it all to you with professional pride, with the joy of the salesman who has a great ship under his feet. He tells you about the horsepower of the steam engines, of the separate diesel engine which generates electric lights in the luxurious lounges and the electric fireplaces and the refrigerators in the excellent bar.

He tells you how the oil is pumped, and the steam cooled again into water for the boilers and how the vast ship is turned into reverse at a signal from the bridge on this dial, and how much fuel this mighty stomach eats up hourly out of the tanks on either side. But you can't understand it. You can only see a jungle of steel snakes curling everywhere, a race of steel giants thrusting their black arms up and down, and those sleek steel columns at either side turning, ever turning, effortlessly against the fierce pressure of the green water just beyond those iron walls.

BARD A WOV: S. R. O.

From The New York Post

To theatre persons the above headline explains itself; this is Shakespeare's year on Broadway. The week-end papers not only carried the news that the John Gielgud "Hamlet" brought in $390,000 at the gross, which in twenty-four weeks, but that "King Richard III" is playing to standing room only. And also, within recent memory, our stage has had two versions of "Othello" and one "Romeo and Juliet."

We don't pretend to know what this means. We're simply tickled by it as spectacle. The sight of large and prosperous gentlemen pushing themselves up to agency counters to inquire anxiously about two down front for "King Richard III" the spectacle of the smooth young men employed in these places nursing their Shakespeare tickets as their most precious stock; the knowledge that as many as 250 persons will stand of a Saturday night to see "Hamlet" and count themselves lucky—all this is vastly pleasing.

We think of Shakespeare, sitting alone in his study a dozen generations ago, scribbling the words of "King Richard III." America is little more than a name to him (he mentions it only a few times in all his plays) and there are a couple of political revolutions and a whole industrial age to go before the world reaches present status. Men, women, times and customs change; only a number of words remain on a number of sheets of paper to speak of Shakespeare's labors.

And here, when we have radio, automobile and yacht to amuse us, not to speak of cocktail bar, men and women pay American dollars for standing space to hear the poet's words, shift from foot to foot during the long performance, roll up fantastic dresses (more than Shakespeare ever earned). The Bard of Avon, without an office in Times Square and minus even a personal agent to look out for his career, outsmarts the money playrights of the day. We find ourselves immensely pleased by the thought.

"RACKET" SAYS MOTORIST CAUGHT IN UP-ISLAND POLICE TRAP

To the Editor:—"And the conviction of the court or magistrate shall be sufficient if it sets forth that the accused person did drive to the common danger, without the necessity of setting forth the specific act or circumstance, which constituted the offence."

This is the power which has been vested in all country magistrates who are working for political heads on a salary and commission basis since the abolition of the speed limit in British Columbia. The foregoing wording is to be found in Section 53 of the provincial Motor Vehicle Act.

The Highway Patrol—probably embracing the biggest racket we have ever seen authorized by legislators, seems to be the latest knock-out blow for motorists. Should you will be well advised to proceed with the utmost caution, and come to a full dead stop at the Chase River stop sign, otherwise you will most likely hear the screech of a siren resembling the hungry howl of a starving timber wolf, and the overbearing by a sleek, well-fed official Dick Turpin, who will compel you to part company with a sum of hard-earned money ranging from $10 up, without even the decency of using a gun. And just try to demand a receipt for your money; you'll never get one. And you pay your money to him, and him only. This particular lad does not know what receipts look like, and evidently does not even believe in them. Why? Does he also work on a commission basis, or what? In any event, it would appear that there is no work for government auditors as far as he is concerned, because the only thing to be checked are his own reports. It would be difficult to prove the existence of any graft, but nevertheless the loophole is there, and human beings are sometimes easily tempted.

A WELL-TRIMMED MOTORIST.

SUGGESTS CALLING ON FLIERS TO FURTHER AIRPORT CAMPAIGN

To the Editor:—From time to time I notice outbursts over the non-existence of an airport at Victoria. It is noticeable to the writer that few, if any, fliers are ever involved in the meetings and discussions that come up from time to time. If my memory serves me correctly there are numerous fliers in town who know airports and aeronautics from the ground up. To mention just a few—Rideout, Eve, Townsend and McDonald. The last-named spent several years flying mail, surveying routes and operating a school of aviation, and was, incidentally, the leader of the seven months' search for the late Capt. M. E. Graham, a mail pilot who was lost in January, 1930, while flying mail between Salt Lake and Los Angeles.

It is customary for the city involved to open up its own airport. There if it meets with the requirements of the federal government assistance is given as in the case of Vancouver. There is little doubt that Victoria is a logical terminus for the much-talked-of trans-Canada route, but, as usual, there has been much talk and little action. The late Major McGivern worked hard on the airport question, but lacked the proper assistance.

Just a suggestion—why not hire some of the mentioned fliers to speak before the different clubs and by so doing keep Victoria's name in constant publicity.

"SLEEPING" STARLET

To the Editor:—I am writing you with regard to the article about Deanna Durbin which appeared in your paper of April 6, under the heading, "Starlet, Sleeps While in City."

I happened to be on the pier when the children were calling "We want Deanna," and would like to advise your reporter, who apparently slept while the starlet was in the city, that Deanna came out on deck and waved to the kids until her boat backed out and blocked her from view.

We were very pleased to have seen her and went home and told the folks about it. And, lo and behold when your paper comes out, she hasn't been seen by anyone.

Now, I will appreciate your publishing this letter or correcting your mistake. Be a sport and do it in fairness to a greater "starlet." D. I. D. I. Ninety-ninth Street West, Calgary, Alta.

Editor's Note:—Times reporter was in the corridor outside Deanna's cabin until ten minutes before the boat sailed. The press agent assured him it was more than his job was worth to let the singer out on deck because she was sick.

PROMISSORY NOTE

From The New Yorker

Another of those strange, stray pieces of writing which people are always picking up and gaily sending to us, has arrived. In scrawly writing, it says:

"I, Marion Vandenberg, eight, do agree to pay to my brother, Jack Vandenberg, eleven, the sum of 2 (two) cents at a future date (because I can't pay now) for sticking his toe in a mouse trap."

Signed, MARION VANDENBERG.

HIS PRIVATE LIFE

From The New York Times

As for the Duke of Windsor, people may differ about his course of action while he was Edward VIII, but from the instant of his abdication there can be no disputing that his conduct has been admirable. Perhaps it is best summed up in the words so dear to the British heart, a gentleman. He has stepped down from a throne and into private life with a perfect unpretending simplicity.

When a man has put aside the most splendid imperial crown in history it would be so easy for him to go into a melodramatic retirement that would keep the world agog.

Instead of so behaving, the Duke of Windsor lost no time in getting down to the vicinity of Vienna, donning some sport clothes, shooting some golf, buying himself a camera, and going out to the cafes and theatres, like everybody else. This is the most effective way in which a former king and emperor can efface himself and leave the centre of the stage to his brother.

IT CAN'T BE DONE

From The New York Sun

Mr. Croll hopes the Donnes may live "a normal family life." He is optimistic, to put it mildly. Quintuplets cannot hope for a "normal family life." If they could they would not harvest a fortune in the first three years of their existence.

WIDOWERS DIE YOUNG

From The Ottawa Journal

For some curious reason the widower seems an especially bad risk. At age thirty-five—and the figures for that age are said to be typical—the mortality among widowers is 9.22 per 1,000, while the rate for married men of the same age is only 4.42. At the same age the death rate of widows is 5.76, as against 4.11 among married women.

PLANNING FOR BIG BUSINESS

More Trains and Better Coast Service For Season, Says W. M. Neal

"It is going to be a big travel year—there's no doubt about it," commented W. M. Neal, vice-president in charge of C.P.R. western lines, Winnipeg, on his arrival in Victoria today.

The railway executive is accompanied on his western tour by R. G. Perse, president of Tees and Perse, manufacturers' agents, Winnipeg.

Both Mr. Neal and Mr. Perse spoke confidently of the better business outlook throughout western Canada.

"Railway passenger business this season should be greater than last year, from advance indications," said Mr. Neal.

"A lot depends on the grain crop, but times for western Canada are going to be better. There is already a noticeable advance in business," said Mr. Perse.

Mr. Neal is making one of his periodical trips over the western system. In anticipation of the improved travel, the C.P.R. will this season operate four air-reconditioned trains in the transcontinental service, east and west daily, said the vice-president.

The coast steamship services would also be stepped up to cater to the new business.

During the day Mr. Neal inspected the local operations of the company over which he has jurisdiction, and this afternoon he enjoyed a swim in the Crystal Garden.

He plans to leave tonight for the east.

REICH YOUTH PICTURE GIVEN

Challenge to Democratic Countries in German Movement

"Can democratic countries secure the fervor, enthusiasm and devotion of their people behind a reasonable programme of social transformation on which all parties will agree—or such devotion come only when extreme measures are advocated?"

That was the question left with the Rotary Club at its luncheon yesterday by R. E. G. Davis, who added to it the warning "I submit that on the answer to that question depends to a large extent the fate of our civilization."

Mr. Davis, who is personnel secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in Canada, spoke on the youth movements of Germany in the light of observations he made during a visit to the Reich last summer.

He found on the credit side of the German youth ledger that the young people of the country were fully organized to the service of the state—that their idealism was undoubted and that they had been imbued with a new puritanism under the Nazi regime.

On the debit side of the book were a totally anti-democratic outlook and an unbridling steered in class and racial hatred, especially noticeable in the treatment of the Jews.

Mr. Davis urged that voluntary youth organizations, rather than government groups, be supported to the full in their work of giving civic training without regimentation.

Mr. Davis was introduced by P. B. Doherty, president of the club.

Mr. Doherty presented a Rotary button to Rotarian Jack Kennedy, superintendent of the E. & N. Railway, in recognition of his work in providing a special train to carry 125 Victoria Rotarians and wives to an intercity meeting in Nanaimo, attended by Victoria, Duncan, Nanaimo, Courtenay and Alberni members on Wednesday night.

At the dinner each club contributed to the programme of entertainment. The Victoria Rotary orchestra, which had played on the train on the way north, entertained the meeting.

Percy Scutcheon of the Victoria club was among the speakers at the dinner, contributing an address on the formation of Rotary.

The train which carried the Victoria party carried a large Rotary wheel on the front of the engine.

Missionaries In Ethiopia Ousted

Canadian Press
Bath, Eng., April 9.—Dr. D. H. C. Bartlett, president of the Bible Churchmen's Missionary Society, announced yesterday that seven members of the society, six Britons and one German, had been expelled from Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, on a week's notice.

No reason was given, he said, for the expulsion from the city that now is under Italian control. Previously the mission had been ordered to take its Ethiopian students, numbering about forty, to Italian headquarters.

The students did not return to the mission and apparently, Dr. Bartlett added, they were banished from Addis Ababa.

TRAILER ADVENTURE

by Nard Jones
 © 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Stranded in San Diego on vacation, MARTHA BRITAIN and BETTY HAYNES obtain an assignment with the Alsped Trailer Company to travel up the coast, demonstrating the new de luxe trailer. Their suspicions are aroused somewhat when ARNOLD SLOAN of the trailer company fails to ask them for either bond or references. They return to their apartment to pack. At their door they surprise a handsome young man trying to enter. Apologetically, he tells them he stepped off at the wrong floor and that he is GERRY NEAL.

They start north and pick up Neal, hitch-hiking. He tells them he is to meet a friend, JACK SPEDDON, at Long Beach. But at Long Beach a car camp when Speddon appears, Neal has disappeared from the trailer. Driving off with Betty to check Neal's disappearance, Speddon fails to return. Frankie, Martha calls police. Then she gets a wire, hours later, signed "Betty" and advising that Betty will meet her at a San Francisco hotel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

Martha's first thought was to get the revolver in the car and turn Neal over to the Monterey police. Quickly she turned, but before she could reach the door of the coupe he had caught her wrist.

"What are you going to do?"

Martha faced him angrily. "I'm going to see that you're put behind bars!"

"But what for?"

"You've something to do with Betty's disappearance. You and Speddon are in it together." She tried vainly to release herself. "And if you don't let go of my wrist I'm going to scream."

Neal smiled. "Don't make me have to cover your mouth."

Martha faced him, her brain racing, trying to hit upon some way to outwit him. There was not a soul in sight, and the nearest lighted dwelling was more than a block away. "Please," she pleaded, "let me go, and tell me how to find Betty. She sent a wire saying she'd meet me at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco. Will she?"

"I know Jack Speddon," Neal said. "And if she's with him she'll meet you there."

"Then you do admit that it's some sort of a trick between the two of you?"

The other shrugged. "I'd hardly say a trick. 'I'm rather inclined to agree with that detective, Sloan.'"

"Sloan?"

"Yes. Didn't he say there was a possibility that Betty just decided to go on with Speddon?"

Martha's jaw dropped. "Then you were near the trailer when Sloan was there?"

"I was in the trailer."

Her blood chilled at his reply. Was Neal a madman, too? "No—you couldn't have been," Neal insisted.

"It was, though," Neal insisted. "Would you like to have me show you how it was possible?" He released her wrist. "I wouldn't go for your gun, if I were you, until you've made sure I'm not a friend."

He opened the door of the trailer and switched on the light, then pointed at the ceiling. To Martha's astonishment a wide rectangular hatch was folded down, revealing a sizeable space between the ceiling and the actual top of the trailer!

She looked at Neal. "But how could you have been up there?"

"It's really quite roomy. And those ventilators on the outside of the trailer go into upper compartment, not into the trailer."

"But—but what's that for?"

"I wondered that myself," Neal said. "You see, I know something of car design. When I came back here to shave I spotted something screwy, so I investigated."

"It must be a luggage compartment. But why didn't Carrington or Sloan tell me about it?"

Gerry Neal smiled oddly. "It would be unusually thoughtful, don't you think, to have ventilation for the luggage? And I can't quite understand, either, why your employers didn't point out such a nice feature."

Martha dropped wearily to the settee, rubbed a moist hand over her forehead. "I—I wish we'd never taken this job. It's all—"

She stopped, looked helplessly at Neal. "I can't understand any of it!"

He offered her a cigarette. "The best thing to do for the time being is calm down and don't try to figure it out."

"But I can't trust you. Why were you hiding? Why didn't you meet"

Speddon as you'd promised? Then all this wouldn't have happened."

Neal sat down beside her, looked squarely into her eyes. "See here, Martha Britain. You've got to trust me. You've got to believe that things might have been worse if I hadn't pulled my little stunt."

"What do you mean?"

"That's all I can tell you now," Neal said.

"But do you know why Betty didn't come back?"

Neal shook his head. "I'm not certain, if you don't accept Sloan's theory."

"I don't," Martha said quickly. "Betty Haynes wouldn't do a thing like that." She stopped a moment. "Do you—do you really a friend of Speddon's?"

"We've known each other for a considerable time."

Martha's head was whirling with questions, but she saw that Neal would not give what answers he knew. How far should she trust him, she wondered. There was the possibility that he was working with Speddon, was even now attempting to throw her off the track. But what did Speddon want with Betty? The Haynes family was not wealthy, so she could not be held for any appreciable ransom. The only other alternative filled Martha's heart with a cold fright. "Will you go to San Francisco with me to meet Betty?" she asked suddenly.

"Of course."

Martha's heart leaped. If she could keep him with her, pretend to fall in with him, there might still be a chance to get him into the hands of the police. Perhaps in the crowded Palace Hotel, when she found Betty's wire had been a hoax, she could have Gerry Neal arrested.

"I'm going to get some rest," she said. "Then we'll start early in the morning."

"You won't run away from me?"

"No."

Neal smiled. "I really wouldn't. I can help you. And you must believe me when I tell you that this whole thing may be bigger than you imagine."

Nationality Of Women Issue

Ottawa, April 9.—A resolution from the Liberal women to the effect "Canada desires the removal of all disabilities of married women in matters of nationality" is in the hands of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The resolution, passed at a meeting of the administrative committee of the National Federation of Liberal Women of Canada, reads:

"The forthcoming Imperial Conference presents such an exceptional opportunity to arrive at a clear understanding of a question only to be decided by treaty agreement between Great Britain and the dominions that the National Federation of Liberal Women of Canada wishes to present the following petition:

"This question which has been debated in British and Dominion Houses of Parliament, at Geneva, at The Hague and elsewhere, concerns the nationality of married women.

"The Hague nationality convention in 1930, Canada, through its accredited representative, approved the recommendation of this conference that a certain larger freedom be afforded to women marrying aliens in the matter of nationality, and that certain specified disabilities hitherto incurred in such marriages be removed, all of which has since been incorporated in an amendment to the Canadian Naturalization Act (August 3, 1931).

"We have been informed that the British Government has officially declared itself in favor of the removal of all disabilities of married women in matters of nationality and that in so far as nationality is concerned it considers that a married woman should be in the same position as a man, married or unmarried, or of any single woman.

"We respectfully request that it be made clear during this assembly of representatives from all parts of the British Empire that Canada desires the removal of all disabilities of married women in matters of nationality."

C.G.I.T. NOTES

The next Bible study will be held on Wednesday evening, April 21, at the home of Miss Lauretta McCall.

Mrs. A. C. Ross Heads B.C. Group

Canadian Daughters Elect Officers For Year

Vancouver, April 9.—Mrs. A. C. Ross of Victoria was elected president of the Provincial Council of the Canadian Daughters League, at the Wednesday morning session of the annual convention, succeeding Mrs. J. A. Abernethy. Mrs. J. J. Fochin goes into the office of first vice-president and Mrs. J. D. Turner of Kamloops is second vice-president.

Other officers for the coming year are: Secretary, Mrs. S. J. Steeves; treasurer, Mrs. F. A. Johnston; chaplain, Mrs. A. Haines of Victoria; sergeant, Mrs. W. R. Moore of Courtenay; general, Mrs. J. Robinson of North Vancouver; pianist, Mrs. W. H. Cadman; press, Mrs. M. E. Brooks; historian, Mrs. Y. V. Murchison of Cloverdale.

At the morning session a report from delegates to the Toronto convention was read.

Provincial delegates and members of the local assemblies of C.D.L. were entertained at luncheon in Hotel Grosvenor, with Dean Bollett, from the University of British Columbia, as guest speaker, and Mrs. Grace McLeod acting as chairman. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. A. McGee, accompanied by Mr. Wallace Laughton at the piano.

Where once the only careers open to a woman were nursing or teaching, the field is wide now, and it is estimated that there are some 1,700 means of livelihood open to women, Dean Bollett said.

It is hoped that in the near future the University of B.C. will be able to offer students courses in Physical Education, Library Science, Household Science and Journalism in addition to those already on the curriculum, she said.

Dean Bollett told of the good done by contributions towards scholarships and bursaries and particularly thanked the C.D.L. for their Educational Loan Fund, which helped in this way. Students who receive scholarships have been chosen with great care and nine times out of ten the money has been well spent.

Bishop Shocks London Paper

London, April 9.—After a London newspaper had headlined his visit to a cinema following the Maundy Thursday service at St. Paul's, the Bishop of London, seventy-nine-year-old Dr. A. P. Winnington-Ingram, declared: "I know it is Holy Week, but it is the end of Lent, and I thought I would have a little relaxation. I did it partly to please my godchild." He entered the cinema wearing his four-cornered purple velvet hat.

Gordon Head Club Closes Season

Gordon Head Current Events Club closed the season on Monday with an interesting programme, Mrs. T. Hammond presiding. Plans were discussed for the fall series, and a committee appointed, with Mrs. E. G. Padon, convener, Mrs. Frost, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Horace McClung.

Mrs. Hebdon of Victoria opened the programme with two charming solos, "Love the Pedlar" (Germane) and "Big Lady Moon" (Coleridge Taylor). Mrs. E. Lewis Smith, gifted violinist, formerly of Penikese, delighted the group with her spirited "Scene de Ballet, by de Beriot, and as an encore "Trois Morceaux" by Petchnikoff; Mrs. J. W. Bishop of Victoria, a generous contributor to the club programme, sang sweetly "Little Feller With His Mammy's Eyes" and "I Know a Lovely Garden." The three artists were very capably accompanied by Mrs. E. G. Padon, Miss Janet Ebbels of Gordon Head, a great favorite, gave two humorous readings, "Mr. Brown Gets a Haircut" and "Mary's Little Puff."

Flowers were sent to Mrs. Peter McNaughton, organizer and chairman of the club, who was unable to be present.

Tea was served under the convener-ship of Mrs. Singer, assisted by Miss Williamson, Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. Playfair and Mrs. Skilling.

St. Paul's Guild—The Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church had as their guest speaker, C. Symons of St. Michael's. His address on the history of the Crown Jewels and other insignia of the British crown was much enjoyed and appreciated in view of the near approach of the Coronation. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Symons by Mrs. Hyde, on behalf of the society.

Y.W.C.A. Table Contest Is Held

Many original and artistic ideas were employed in the decorated table contest held last night at the Y.W.C.A., when each of its clubs participated in the interesting and successful event. The Choral Club won the silver cup, its table being decorated in Japanese style, with a miniature garden and plumb blossoms.

Mrs. J. D. Hunter, Mrs. J. W. Lennox and Mrs. Alex T. Stewart acted as judges of the competition, and found their task a difficult one, so attractive were all the entries. Mrs. Stewart presented the winners with the cup, which was originally the gift of the board of directors, and was won last year by the Versatile Club.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

About 150 club members and their friends attended the silver tea and musical, and were welcomed by Mrs. W. E. Cushing, the clubroom being gay with spring flowers.

The musical programme included a song by Miss Edna Burgess, accompanied by Miss E. Gower; Robin Wood played a piano solo; the Choral Club, under the direction of Miss E. P. Eds, sang selections, with Mrs. W. Fletcher at the piano; Miss Bernice Ferguson played a violin solo, Mrs. Fletcher accompanying, and a group of Japanese dancers, led by Miss Marjorie Kuwata, delighted the audience.

PRETTY TABLES

All the tables were much admired. The Versatile Club used their colors, red and silver, with red and white carnations in a silver basket with red tapers in silver holders, and red tulips round the centerpiece. The Business Club made a little more elaborate showing with their "April Showers Bring May Flowers." A little yellow umbrella with a silver vase holding pretty spring flowers was the centerpiece, with miniature umbrellas at each corner.

The gymnasium department's table was dainty with a centre of erythroniums in a black bowl and yellow candles in black holders on either side. The Pirates had a minute rock garden with a tiny garden of violets and freesia in the centre. The Y-owenka table had a bowl of mixed spring blooms with tapers of the same shades among the flowers.

CRAFTS DISPLAYED

In the lounge, where tea was served, the Craft Club had their display of winter work done in the craft shop of the Y.W.C.A. Many attractive things were exhibited and showed that a keen interest had been shown by the girls in this department of the Y.W.C.A. Great credit is due to the teachers of this group, Miss Gertrude Snider, Miss Tuckey, Mrs. Whitwell, Mrs. Malone and Mrs. Connelly.

The tea table in the lounge was most attractive with its lace cloth and pretty, gay spring flowers and yellow tapers. Mrs. Cushing and Mrs. Whitwell poured tea. The committee in charge of tea arrangements was Margaret Lambie, convener; Shigeno Fujikawa, Grace Hall, Mary Marriott, Margaret Partington, Evelyn Baxter, and was assisted by Miss Peach and Miss Craig. The money made at the tea will go towards helping to send girls to the Y.W.C.A. regional conference to be held at Camp Fircroft on Gambier Island, May 24, week-end.

Romantic Gowns At Spring Style Revue

Angus Campbell's Stage Fascinating Display of French and British Styles; Coronation Influence

Coronation year implies festivity and the real spirit of "Let's go gay!" That clothes have caught the same spirit was evident at the two style revues staged at Angus Campbell's Limited yesterday afternoon when several hundred spectators were treated to a pageant of color, elegance and femininity, as expressed in the newest creations from the salons of the great French modistes.

FRENCH MODELS

Evening frocks this season fall into three groups, romantic, theatrical and sophisticated, all of which are produced by the French designers with reserve, but all lending verve to the evening color pageant. "Clouds of Dusk," a lovely creation after Schiaparelli, was in the theatrical group, its soft draperies and cape of clouded morning blue and doctored evening purple chiffon reflecting the Grecian theatre influence.

McLure this season features tiny jackets for evening wear and the new "Royal Bay" model was in silk net of twilight blue with newest of new blazer pleatings.

ROMANTIC STYLES

"Camille," as romantic as its name, and created by Chanel, was in a navy net, with the new "waltz skirt" with a sentimental trim of large white marguerites from neck to hem and the corsette bodice. Another lovely Rudolph gown in this romantic group was "Hilite and Pastiche," of starched marquisette in Parma violet shade, appliqued at the hem and tiny puff sleeves in cerise. A LeLong model of colonial embroidered marquisette in midnight blue boasted an all-over pattern of beautiful and intricate hand embroidery in chalk-white.

Robert designed the adorable new redingote dress of twilight blue net over tulle, with its romantic waist skirt of immense width and its tiny shepherdess lacings, like diminutive bows, adding to its feminine appeal. Another Robert evening gown of the sophisticated type was of plaster-white crepe, with hand-blocked field flower design, field-green belt and hand-tinted poppies on the corsage.

FORMAL GOWNS

Dinner and evening gowns are glamorous and elegant. Daisies are popular even on the most sophisticated gown, and appeared on the corset and skirt of an alluring navy marquisette, and on the shoulders of a navy and white polka-dotted dinner dress. A lovely chiffon frock in Parma violet boasted rows of deep ruchings on the skirt and edging the tiny coat, while an alluring gown of chiffon in coronation blue had a diaphanous scarf drapery of chartreuse green with a chartreuse green corsage bouquet. Another lovely dinner dress was a grey suede lace with high neck piping and belt of cerise velvet.

CORONATION TONES

The coronation colors of fuchsia and cerise fashioned a graceful evening gown of chiffon, while a quantity original note was struck in the evening gown of cerulean blue net over candy-striped tulle, the choker of flowers at the high neck reflecting the colors of the stripes.

AFTERNOON FROCKS

Long skirts are definitely passe for afternoon wear, and all models shown were of the new short length and in swing style. A coronation print of vivid colorings was allied with black sunray pleating in one fascinating frock, while another in black had a sunray pleated skirt and slim bodice, with a demure white collar.

"Firefly" was the apt name of a gay print patterned on blue, with diamonds glistening in the pattern. Piquant in its appeal was the demure two-piece afternoon frock of black triple sheer, its little fitted coat patterned down the front and at the stand-up collar in white braid.

A RADIANT BRIDE

Every fashion show must have a bridal gown as its climax, and seldom has there been a lovelier "bride" and attendants than those of yesterday. Miss Brinkman's brunette beauty found perfect foil in the shimmering ivory crepe black satin made very simply with a narrow braided cord at the waistline, the sleeves tapering from the upper arm to tight fitting points over the hand. A full court train hung from the waistline and a filmy Brussels net veil was attached to a coronet of orange blossoms.

The bride in white and mauve net, Miss Knipston and Miss Hadow, wore frocks trimmed with ruffled bandings, and Miss Ackerman and Miss Cummings in pink and green wore frocks on which the ruching formed huge cabochons on the skirts and shoulder capes. Their little Watteau hats were of net, trimmed with French flowers. The matron of honor in the group, Miss Morrison, wore a beautifully cut gown of pink lace with a fitted coatee. The "bride" and her attendants carried Colonial bouquets of spring flowers.

FINE TAILORING

Beautifully tailored suits and ensembles, knitted suits and tweed and dressy coats were modeled. Suits take on feminine charm in touches of color, as in the very smart two-piece of black silk crepe, with a scarf of cerise and ash of the same color accenting the little Eton jacket; another attractive suit of navy boasted four pockets on the jacket and also had red color accents in the scarf and handkerchief.

The Golfex models, for which Angus Campbell's are the exclusive agents, are smarter than ever, crisp white gilets and other touches revealing their hall mark of chic.

Acting as models were the Misses Thelma Ackerman, Audrey Hadow, W. Knapperton, Cummings, Brinkman and Morrison.

Sailors' Home Gives Fine Service

Connaught Institute Reviews Year; Mrs. Sayer Resigns

A splendid record of service to the seamen who visit this port was contained in the reports presented at the annual meeting of the Victoria Connaught Seamen's Institute, held yesterday afternoon.

LOSE PRESIDENT

Mrs. W. R. Sayer, who has been the able and efficient president for the last five years, resigned, post owing to ill-health, much to the regret of the committee, who paid warm tribute to her long record of service to the institute. She has been an active member for twenty-five years and was its honorary secretary for fifteen years before becoming the president.

Other officers chosen: First vice-president, Mrs. Vernon Thomson; second vice-president, Madame Claudet; third vice-president, Mrs. David Doig; secretary, Mrs. Healey Kerr; assistant secretary, Mrs. Church; treasurer, Mrs. J. D. MacDonald; house committee, Mrs. H. D. Day and Mrs. F. W. Cashmore; St. Joseph's Hospital, Mrs. W. Hadow; Jubilee Hospital, Mrs. J. Quinn; wool convener, Miss de Trafford; advisory committee, Col. A. W. R. Wilby, Capt. R. W. McMurray, Mr. W. Allan, Capt. W. Brown, Mr. H. D. Day and Mr. A. S. Denny; honorary patron and patroness, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber; honorary patroness, Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia.

TREASURER'S REPORT

Madame Claudet, treasurer, presented the audited report of the finances for the year, which showed receipts of $2,027.40 and disbursements of $1,494.29. A balance of $533.10 is left to operate the home until the autumn and pay the taxes, which are heavy.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. Day, recorded the visit paid by His Honor and Mrs. Hamber to the institute recently, and expressed regret at the resignation of Mrs. Sayer.

Rev. F. Connelley became chaplain of the institute on the departure of Rev. F. W. Weaver for Cumberland.

The anniversary tea and bridge held in November at the Empress Hotel was a great success. During the year the advisory committee welcomed as a new member Mr. A. S. Denny, who has done excellent work among the visiting sailors by entertaining them and taking them for motor drives.

Mr. H. Day, who has given much time in connection with repairs, and the Dominion Government and C.P.R. were thanked for their help; also the Navy League Chapter I.O.D.E. for re-covering the billiard table and donating calendars for the lighthouse keepers and giving clothing and supplies for the week-end seamen of St. Temple Moat; the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E. of Trail, for smokes and woollens. The Colonist and Victoria Times supplied daily papers.

EX-SEAMEN ASSISTED

At Christmas a number of ex-seamen were assisted with woollens, coal and cash donations. Gifts of woollens, tobacco and fruit, etc., were taken to seamen in the hospitals and they were visited regularly. A party of sailors were entertained on Christmas Eve. The shipwrecked sailors of the St. Temple Moat were assisted with clothing and supplies.

Miss de Trafford, wool convener, reported a number of ladies knitting for her and she was thanked for her work in this connection, wool having been supplied to the St. Temple Moat, Naval Veterans' Branch of the Canadian Legion, homes, hospitals and relief work. Necessary repairs to the building have been made and chairs re-covered through the generosity of Mrs. D. Doig, who supplied the material, and new curtains were given by Mrs. Sayer.

Metropolitan Societ—A congregational basket social will be held on Wednesday, April 14, in the schoolroom. Ladies are asked to come with a daintily decorated basket containing refreshments for two, which the gentlemen will purchase for a small sum. Tea will be provided by the Chummy Club. A splendid programme is being arranged.

Sudbury Captures Allan Cup Opener

Eastern Champions Whip North Battleford Beavers 4 to 1 in Canadian Senior Hockey Finals at Calgary; Second Battle Tomorrow Night

Calgary, April 9.—The Allan Cup, symbol of senior supremacy in Canadian hockey, today appeared destined to return to the east after a year's sojourn in the west.

Sudbury Tigers, carrying the eastern challenge, opened their bid for the trophy last night with a convincing 4 to 1 triumph over North Battleford Beavers, western Canada champions, in the first game of the best-of-five series.

Combining a brilliant attack with a tight defence that throttled the usually-potent Beaver offence, Tigers overwhelmed the Saskatchewan warriors and set themselves up as favorites to win the second encounter here Saturday and also the cup, captured last year by Kimberley Dynamos.

Limited to one goal in the first period due to the marvelous goal-tending of Ken Davis, Sudbury broke out in the second with a three-goal spurge and then laid down a strong defence in the third.

Beavers' famed long-passing game was smothered all night and their only counter was scored late in the final session while the North Battleford team had every man up the ice. Joe Schwab, husky utility player, snared Cam Burke's rebound about ten feet out, pulled Charlie Teno out of the goal and added the puck into the open net.

DOMINATE PLAY
Tigers, appearing little affected by their long train ride from Toronto and the much-foisted change of altitude, dominated the play throughout with a brand of hard and accurate firing that thrilled a crowd of almost 5,000 watching the first Allan Cup final ever played in Calgary.

The first two Sudbury goals were tallied on blazing shots from just inside the blue line that sliced into the net before Davis had a chance to move for them. The final pair came from classy combination plays.

After turning aside a rain of pucks for more than eighteen minutes in the first, Davis fanned on a knee-high drive that Jules Cholette, speedy right winger, uncorked from about thirty feet out.

Mel Hill beat Davis again on an almost identical shot after seven minutes of the second.

Centre George Hastie and Cholette combined for the other two. Hastie, a crack playmaker, got the first after picking up Cholette's pass from the corner and faking Davis out of the net.

Cholette counted the second ninety-one seconds later after the pair had breezed through the North Battleford defence. He took Hastie's pass about ten feet out and fooled Davis with his quick shot.

Rudolph "Bingo" Kampman, husky Tiger rearguard, suffered an inch-long gash on his left ankle when he crashed into Schwab in the third, but it was not expected the injury would keep him out of the second game.

Japanese Runs Amok In Berlin Embassy
Canadian Press from Havas
Berlin, April 9.—Secretary Nishiki of the Japanese-German Association ran "amok" with an Oriental sabre in the Japanese Embassy here yesterday, declaring himself "the Japanese Minister of War" as he smashed furnishings with the heavy-bladed weapon. He demanded "surrender of the Japanese army," shouting "the great Japanese revolution" was at hand. He was overpowered and taken to an asylum at Wittenau.

Winnipeg Cagers Win Over Regina

Regina, April 9.—Thirteen was an unlikely number for Regina's Oconot basketballers last night as they dropped their Dominion playdown game to Winnipeg St. Andrews 38 to 28 to leave themselves the task of overcoming that ten-point deficit in tonight's series windup.

Taking the jump on St. Andrews the Oconots had 1,000 fans in an uproar early in the game as they started to pile up a lead. They ran the count to 13 to 4 before the match was many minutes old, and then they faded. Winnipeg ran up twenty points before the Reginsans shook loose of the "thirteen" jinx.

It applies generally to all countries with currencies appreciated in terms of the Canadian dollar.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today

APRIL 9, 1912 (From The Times Files)

Workmen this morning were putting the finishing touches on the new lamps on Government Street, and in a day or so they will be in full working order. These new additions will add greatly to the illumination of the city's principal thoroughfare, and will make it one of the best lighted streets on the North American continent.

A. H. Dimoch, city engineer of Seattle, and successor in that office to Engineer Thompson, has been offered the office of city engineer for Victoria to succeed Angus E. Smith, incumbent of the office, whose term will expire on May 31, the date named by him in his resignation handed to the council recently.

Wreckage-strewn and dangerous shoals of Alaskan waters are to be lighted within the next sixty days, and sailing in these waters made safe through the distribution by the lighthouse tender Armeria, now at Seattle, of fourteen fixed white acetylene lights along the shores which have constituted the greatest danger to navigation.

After his visit to the Old Country, for which he sets out on Sunday, Premier McBride intends to make a tour of Prince Rupert and the district in the vicinity, including various sections of the British Columbia northern coast districts. He will be accompanied on the tour by Attorney-General Bowser.

A wedding in which much interest has been taken is that of Miss Marion Macdonald, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Macdonald, and Mr. Alfred Bull, of the legal firm of Buchanan and Bull, which was celebrated at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Church and which was witnessed by a large company of friends of the young couple.

BENNETT NOT YET RETIRING

Will Continue as Conservative Leader at Least Till After Coronation

Ottawa, April 9.—At the final Conservative caucus of the present session, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett told his supporters yesterday that should he decide to relinquish leadership of the party, he would give plenty of notice. Announcement of this assurance was made by A. C. Caselman, Conservative whip in the Commons, after the caucus had adjourned.

The Conservative leader's statement is presumed to have been prompted by reports through the country that he was giving consideration to retiring. It is stated he told the members it would not do in the interests of the party to have uncertainty as to the leadership continue indefinitely. He expected to return from a trip to European countries following the Coronation at a reasonably early date and would then be ready to make known his decision.

London, April 9.—There is to be nothing antiquated in the hospitality tendered the Canadian guests at the Imperial Conference by their hosts the government of the United Kingdom.

Prime Minister King and his private secretariat are to be put up at the Ritz, while the ministers, officials and advisers will be billeted in Arlington Houses, a block of de luxe flats just completed behind the Ritz and not before occupied.

San Francisco—Jimmy E. Pulpo, 175, Mexico City, defeated Dory Detton, 180, Salt Lake City (two falls out of three).

He had followed the teaching profession for more than half a century. He wrote many books on musical topics and early in his career composed a sonata for piano and a string quartette.

He was vice-chancellor of Sheffield University from 1919 to 1930. His work in France during the Great War as educational director for the Young Men's Christian Association won him a knighthood in 1918.

Birth Rate In Moscow Doubled

Associated Press
Moscow, April 9.—Moscow's birth rate for the first three months of 1937 is reported to have virtually doubled that of the corresponding period last year.

The increase was attributed largely to the "big family" decree of last June, which prohibited operations for the prevention of childbirth and made divorce more difficult to obtain.

The move is designed to check increase in prices of the metals in addition to facilitating military, naval and domestic construction projects.

WORK TONIGHTNo Word on Salary Question
As Council Prepares to Consider EstimatesMembers of the City Council were mute today on the salary question as they prepared for the opening attack on the 1937 city budget at a special meeting in the council chamber at 7.30 o'clock tonight.There was a general expression of opinion against any reduction in wages as they exist at present, but those contacted today declined to voice their stand on requests which have been made by the various staffs for restoration of salaries to levels prior to the cuts effected during the depression.Mayor Andrew McGavin, after partial perusal of the draft departmental estimates, stated the majority of vetoes appear to be satisfactory in comparison to those of last year.In the separate police section he indicated some action might be taken to improve the station's heating plant through modification of the existing equipment. Such action would be taken in the interest of fuel economy, he said.Questioned on the school board budget, the mayor stated he thought the City Council would call for a board of arbitration on the estimates for educational purposes. The council left that avenue open when it requested the board to reduce its expenditure estimate to a flat sum of $400,000. So far the school board has cut down to a figure of $407,798.75.SAY DEPUTY
WANTED HEREMeeting Feels Marine Deputy
On Pacific Coast Would Help Settle ProblemsSuggestion that a deputy Minister of Marine be appointed and stationed on the Pacific Coast will be made to the special Department of Transport investigator, who will be sent to the coast to look into the whole matter of increased port dues for public harbors, was decided at a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors and shipping representatives this morning.Harold Husband, president of the chamber presided.
This suggestion came from James Forman, who said it first came up when the Board of Trade was looking after the public affairs of Victoria.
"We are still as far away from Ottawa as ever, and they know just as little about us as ever they did.
The old Board of Trade thought a deputy minister on the coast would be a solution to our problems."DIDN'T KNOW FACTS
George McGregor said if the Department of Transport had been aware of the facts, it would never have acted as it did in imposing higher harbor dues.
R. H. B. Ker thought Mr. Forman's suggestion an excellent one.
Duncan MacBride pointed out public harbors had no direct representation at Ottawa."I think if you consider the harbors outside the Central Harbor
Board you will agree there is serious work and the problems are serious enough for a deputy minister on the coast."Capt. R. W. McMurtry said that if a deputy were appointed for the Pacific Coast, the Atlantic Coast would want one, too, as there were just as many harbors there.NOT ENOUGH
J. O. Cameron expressed his pleasure at the lifting of fees for log booms, but said it was not enough.
"The big proposition is having to take our lumber to Vancouver or New Westminster, because we will be unable to get a ship to come into Victoria. That's more important than the log question."Capt. George Kirkendall, harbor-master, told the meeting he had not yet collected the increased harbor dues, because he had not received a receipt book from Ottawa, but had warned shipmasters calling at Victoria since the first of the month that they were liable to be called upon later to pay the difference.George I. Warren, secretary of the chamber, read extensive correspondence from J. H. Hamilton, secretary of the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange regarding the material that has been sent to the Minister of Transport. Victoria's case was well outlined in this, the meeting felt.Picture of First Mayor Given CityAn oil painting of Victoria's first mayor, Thomas Harris, was presented to the city this week by the original chief magistrate's grandson as a commemorative emblem of the city's seventy-fifth anniversary.The gift was made by Thomas Harris, a member of the city collector's department.Lepers Hunted

Yuekung, Kwangtung Province,

today against lepers who have been

EXCELLENTA meeting of the committee in charge of the recreation rooms was held last night when monthly reports were received for March. H. H. Smith presided.The financial statement given by R. F. Taylor showed income from donations during March as $226.50 with expenditure $180 leaving a cash balance on hand of $103. Mr. Taylor stated, in over five years' operation there has been no reserve fund, but always when appealed to the public have provided necessary funds to meet expenses, approximately another $100 will be needed to cover this month's passed by the committee to those who attendance still showed an increase over last year's figure. With more single unemployed men in the city this year, more men have found a haven in the rooms than at any time during operation. Conduct has been excellent, and many expressions of appreciation have been voiced. Several men have been sent out on odd jobs during the month, and good supplies of reading material were received.Claim License

Plates ChangedUnusual Case in Saanich
Court; Joke Victim, Says
AccusedHearing was opened in the Saanich
Police Court yesterday on a charge against Reginald Beaumont of unlawfully having displayed number plates on his car on which certain figures and letters had been altered. It was the first time such a charge had been laid here for several years.Evidence of the prosecution, given by Constable Wallace Woods, was that he had seen the accused's car in a lot with this year's license plates displayed. He had investigated and discovered that the plates were 1936 licenses which had been ingeniously altered to 1937 plates by repainting and changing of the figure "6" to "7" in the year.A check-up with records had revealed the number on the plates this year had been issued to another motorist. The constable said Mr.
Beaumont had admitted to him that he had used the car with the plates on.In his own defence, the accused claimed the plates had been placed on his car on April 1, April Fool's Day, and that he had not bothered to remove them. He denied having used the car since the plates were put on.The case was remanded for a week to allow Mr. Beaumont to produce additional defence evidence.MANY VISITORS

Wage Schedule Is Barred By Judge

Minimum Set Up For Plumbers in Ontario Is Ruled Out

Canadian Press

Toronto, April 9.—Wage schedules fixed for the plumbing and heating trades under the Ontario Industrial Standards were declared ultra vires today in a judgment by Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy of the Ontario Supreme Court.

A stated case, in which Belyea Brothers of Toronto were charged with contravening the act by paying to an employee wages under those fixed, was placed before Mr. Justice McEvoy. Magistrate James Cowan of Toronto, who tried the case, had decided the act was valid.

AT CONFERENCES

Under the act minimum wages and hours of work were established at a conference within any industry. In the case of the plumbing and heating trades, the resultant agreement was forwarded to the government, which gave approval in an order-in-council dated September 24, 1936.

Mr. Justice McEvoy ruled the wage schedule ultra vires as it exceeded powers granted by the statute.

NO BLAME FOR POLICE SHOOTING

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 9.—A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Constable Lyle Robin of the city police for the death of Frederick Himmelman. The nineteen-year-old youth was fatally wounded after a scuffle with Robin as he and Constable Robert Cooper investigated a burglar alarm in a downtown chain store.

"There is no blame attached to Constable Robin as we believe that he fired in self-defence while in performance of his duty," the verdict read.

Employees of the store, at the inquest yesterday, identified the youth as having worked in the establishment last summer.

Tarzan's Quest

Convinced that he could get no more information, Tarzan vanished into the trees; then he circled back secretly to follow Tami to the mysterious home of the Kavaras. But strangely, when the ape-man picked up his trail again, he was traveling southward.

Hour after hour Tarzan dogged his quarry's footsteps or watched him while he rested. At last he realized they were approaching Udo's village, from which the ape-man had recently escaped. Then, in the jungle Lord's surprise, Tami took to the trees.

Presently the white savage uncoiled a rope from around his waist and ran a noose in one end of it. Now Tarzan heard faintly from a distance, Wafiri, Tami's friend, his direction slightly and moved toward the sound like a keen hunter stalking his prey.

Hunter and prey! These are the two ever-shifting divisions of the jungle, whether man or beast. And so, when Tarzan and Tami heard a wild scream, they believed that Lady Jane, who had gone out as a hunter, had become a prey!

Esquimalt Central Liberal Association Meets at Luxton

Esquimalt Central Liberal Association held their annual meeting yesterday evening in Luxton Hall, W. A. Walker presided.

President Walker and Secretary Pullen presented reports, which were adopted. Mr. Pullen reported on the increased membership of the association and the splendid co-operation of the members, and in conclusion hoped this constituency would have a Liberal member representing it after the next election.

A. G. Hobbs presented the treasurer's report which showed a satisfactory balance.

Election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, C. E. Whitney-Griffiths; president, W. A. Walker; first vice-president, H. E. Bell; second vice-president, C. H. Helgesen; treasurer, A. G. Hobbs; executive, H. E. Thornt, S. R. Moore, J. F. Robinson, A. E. Parker, J. Trace, N. Findler and W. Geddes.

It was decided to leave the selection of the poll captains to the executive.

Sixteen delegates were appointed to the Liberal convention on April 22 in Luxton Hall.

C. E. Whitney-Griffiths briefly addressed the meeting. He urged the people to be fair in their demands upon the association. He stated the Liberal party in this riding had won commendation even from their opponents on what had been accomplished in this district, and in this connection spoke highly of the sustained membership of the association. Mr. Whitney-Griffiths stated that during the next sixty days in the district there would be ample work for every man capable of doing work. The speaker asked the members to consider and weigh over carefully what had been accomplished and hoped they would return the Liberal party at the next election.

Lantern slides were shown by C. L. Harrison of Victoria, the scenes depicting the scenery of the Forbidden Plateau and the west coast. Mr. Harrison lamented the fact that a national park had not been established on Vancouver Island.

Dorothy Dix

THEY are agitating for a thirty-hour week for housewives. Fine and dandy. It is about time we did something for Mother, for if there is an economic slave in this country she is it.

There have been no union hours nor short weeks for her. She works overtime every day of her life with no extra pay. She is up an hour in the morning before Father and the children, cooking breakfast for them, and long after they are sound asleep at night she is still hard at it washing a shirt for Father, darning the tear in Mary's dress and patching little Johnny's trousers.

No real vacation for her because when she does get away from home for a day or two she has to take the children along with her. Not even a half day Saturday holiday or a Sunday off because when the balance of the family go on an outing Mother has to make a burnt offering of herself on the kitchen stove preparing extra big meals for them.

Undoubtedly the most overworked individual on earth is the poor woman who has to be her own cook, nurse, seamstress, scrubber and laundress, and who finds every day too short in which to get through her multitudinous chores. And it would be a grand and glorious thing if this poor bridge builder, with her burdens lifted, her hours of labor shortened and she be given that leisure and rest that she only finds in the grave.

But how this miracle is to be accomplished, goodness only knows, for in every household there are certain things to be done to keep a family healthy and happy. If Mother doesn't do it in those homes in which there is no money to hire servants, it simply isn't done and everything goes to pot.

If Mother isn't on the job the fire won't cook; Tommy's eas won't was; Sally's hair won't comb; Father's shirt won't find itself; the groceries won't come; the vacuum cleaner won't sweep; the newspapers won't pick themselves up; there will be nothing good to eat; nobody will get off to school or work on time; there will be no comfortable place to rest; nobody will be singing about "Home Sweet Home."

Still and all, every one of us—even those who victimize her most—would like for Mother to get a thirty-hour week, only we don't see how it is to be brought about since families seem to be devised by Nature to run on a twenty-four-hour-a-day schedule, seven days a week. It cannot be done by law, since the habits and appetites of men and children are not governed by statutes, and not all the laws in the world could keep Father and the boys from getting hungry on Mother's off hours, or stop the baby from yelling his head off for his 5 o'clock bottle.

Nor can you imagine Mother going on a strike for shorter hours. You can't picture any woman sitting down in the midst of her dirty dishes in a cluttered kitchen, or leaving the wash in the tub and walking out because her thirty-hour week was up. Nor can you think of one who would let a sick child moan for water during a feverish night, or refuse to get up and cover a restless one because she was off duty. You would have to picket every house in the world to see that some woman wasn't doing scab labor in it.

It has been suggested that Mother's lot can be ameliorated by her husband devoting part of the more abundant leisure his shorter hours are going to give him to helping her with the housework and thus giving her more leisure. This would be a wonderful solution of the problem if it would only work. But it won't. Not one husband in ten thousand will stay away from club or cronies to do the family wash or get dinner while Mother goes to the movies. Nor, to tell the truth, will women be keen about having a man under foot in the house. They have plenty to do as it is, without having to clean up after Husband has mowed up half a dozen pots and pans boiling an egg and making a piece of toast.

So, alas, the dream of a thirty-hour week for housewives goes bloney. Wives can't unionize and demand better pay and shorter hours because their work is never done, and the only adequate pay they can ever get is the appreciation and gratitude of their families. And they are mighty seldom able to collect that debt.

V—THE THAMES

Thirty-five miles of docks along its banks. That is one part of the story which may be told about the Thames, the most important river in England. The name is pronounced like "tem," to rhyme with "hema."

The Tower of London is close to the bank of the Thames. Some of the unhappy prisoners who were taken there in olden times were led across the old London Bridge.

Boating on the Thames is a pleasure which many London folk enjoy. And the river is used for boat races. When Oxford and Cambridge have their yearly race, it seems that almost all the people in London flock to the waterside.

size. Five centuries ago, it was the home of only about 50,000 people, and two centuries ago it contained less than 250,000. Today the population of Greater London is more than 8,000,000, and it is ranked as the world's largest city.

SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1937

Benefic aspects dominate today, according to astrology. It is a time for closing long-delayed business deals and for pushing all important projects.

The planetary government encourages construction. Architects, builders and contractors should profit greatly, although there may be future obstacles that cause delays.

This is primarily a day for conferences and for letters that are preliminaries for important enterprises. Well-trained men in professions associated with building now will profit.

Confidence and even exhilaration will be apparent in the public mind at this time, when warning is given against speculation.

Stock markets will be sensitive and there may be sudden fluctuations. Quick fortunes will be made, but the wise will avoid risks.

This should be a favorable day for seeking companionship which will be helpful. Hours may be passed in amusement and recreation will turn out to be popular in the future.

Astrologers forecast for men in authority, whether in government or business, a tendency to unite for mutual good. Underlying principles of unionism now will affect executives of every rank.

Rise in the cost of necessities of modern life will affect lumber. Novel ideas will be introduced to replace the use of timber in houses. It is forecast.

Persons whose birthdate is 18 have the augury of a year of gradual advancement in business and professional affairs. Responsibility will increase.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly high-strung and sensitive. Subjects of this sign may have great artistic interests. Musicians, poets and orators belong to this sign.

General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, was born on this day, 1829. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include: Lew Wallace, soldier and writer, 1827; and Joseph Pulitzer, editor and publisher, 1847.

Two Die in Plane

Edinburgh, April 9.—A Royal Air Force plane that left here for a short flight was found yesterday, wrecked and burned on a hillside near Queensbury. The two occupants, a pilot and passenger, were killed.

It was the second R.A.F. accident this week. On Tuesday a flying boat from Calcutta dived into the Solent. Three occupants were killed and two injured.

ATLANTIC AIR SERVICE SOON

Mail-carrying May Begin This Summer, With Passenger Service Later

Associated Press
Washington, April 9.—The United States has completed arrangements with three English-speaking nations for commercial air service across the Atlantic Ocean.

J. Monroe Johnson, assistant secretary of the Commerce Department, said agreement had been reached with Canada, Ireland and Great Britain under which giant flying boats will speed passengers and mail between New York and London, with stopovers in Canada and Ireland.

Johnson said experimental flights probably will be started "in a very short time" by British Imperial Airways and Pan-American Airways.

Mail-carrying may begin this summer, with passengers accepted later. Johnson said the two air companies "have been ready since last June to begin experimental flights."

These have been delayed pending outcome of the negotiations between the governments. He said clipper ships similar to those now flying the Pacific will be used for experimental Atlantic flights. However, special new planes are being developed both here and in England for the trans-Atlantic service.

With New York and London as terminals, the trans-Atlantic ships will stop off in Ireland and at Botwood, Newfoundland, near St. John's. Between Newfoundland and New York, two routes have been arranged—one via Montreal and one via Shediac, New Brunswick.

In winter months a southern route would be followed, planes touching Bermuda and the Azores.

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 9.—Canada will be ready when the first of Britain's great flying boats crosses the Atlantic this summer in an experimental flight preparatory to the establishment of regular air mail and passenger service across the ocean. Preparations in this country have been completed.

Work proceeded in Newfoundland on two seaplane bases and an airport and landings can be made at two points, Gander Lake, in the northern interior, or Botwood, north of Harbor Grace on the east coast. The airport is being constructed at Hattie's Camp on Gander Lake, leading to belief the northern base will be the final choice.

Canadian terminus of the flights will be at St. Hubert airport, near Montreal, the flying boats landing on the St. Lawrence River close to the airport.

On about one quarter of the flights, however, Shediac, N.B., will be used as the Canadian terminus.

The arrival will bring to fruition a ten-year-old dream of an Empire trans-Atlantic air service. Montreal's great airport was opened in 1928. A giant dirigible mooring mast stood at the northeast end. It was used once.

To it in the summer of 1930 was moored the British airship R-100, forerunner of what was to have been a mail and passenger service by lighter-than-air craft.

Not long afterwards the R-101, sister ship to Canada's visitor, went down in France with heavy loss of life and the United Kingdom abandoned dirigible building.

The Transport Department has organized a complete weather service for the airline, using existing radio signal stations and small stations established at lighthouses.

At Montreal the Atlantic service will connect soon with the trans-Canada airline, officials say.

NO INVASION BY JAPANESE

Cordell Hull Says North Pacific Fishermen Having Nothing to Fear

Associated Press
Washington, April 9.—Secretary Hull advised western congressmen yesterday he does not expect Japan to invade the traditional American fishing grounds off the Alaskan coast without due consideration of United States interests.

He discounted expressed fears that the Japanese, by interest in fishing, would destroy the salmon industry that the United States and Canada have sought to preserve by expenditure of millions of dollars for conservation.

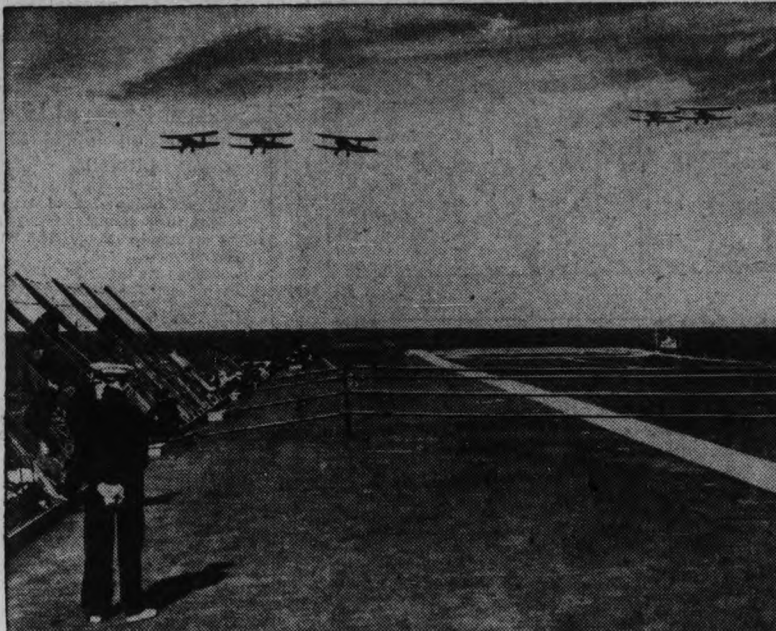

"In the light of information now available to the State Department," Hull said, "the assumption would seem to be warranted that the Japanese government appreciates the character of the problem which would be raised by Japanese salmon fishing operations off the coast of Alaska."

The Tokyo embassy advised him, he said, that Japanese press reports recently quoted the Minister of Agriculture and Forestry as saying that while Japanese fishing outside territorial waters is permissible, this matter is to be seriously considered because of international relations between Japan and the United States.

He said he had further reports that an association of Japanese fishing interests "recently issued a pamphlet in which there is emphasized the right from the point of view of international law of Japan to participate in the exploitation of the salmon in the eastern Pacific."

"However, the association recommends," he added, "that the Japanese government give consideration to the exercise of care to conserve and protect salmon, to give full regard to the interest of other countries and to maintain harmony among all the salmon fishing industries concerned."

British Planes "At Home" in Mid-ocean

This scene shows, not the vast expanse of a landing field, as might be thought, but the deck of a British aircraft carrier in mid-Atlantic, with five airplanes vying homeward to their floating base. Notice the "fences" strung across the deck which check the speed of a landing plane. White lines divide the deck into runways.

DOWN THE GANGWAY

Niagara a "Coronation Ship" This Voyage—Many of Her Passengers Will Hurry to London—Wife of New Zealand's Governor-General Is Passenger—B.C. People Return From Hawaiian Islands—Colonial Treasurer of Fiji Islands Is Arrival

The liner Niagara, which arrived from the Antipodes this morning might have almost been termed a "Coronation ship," for on board were 278 passengers, the majority of them en route to London to attend the coronation and see the sights on the streets of the British capital May 12, when King George and Queen Elizabeth drive from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey for their Coronation.

Most of the travelers will cross immediately to the Atlantic seaboard, and there take various ships to Europe. The Ss. Queen Mary, sailing from New York April 21, seems to be the most popular ship, for a large number of the Niagara's passengers will meet again aboard her during her four-day Atlantic crossing.

Prominent among the Niagara's passengers was the Viscountess Galway, wife of the Governor-General of New Zealand, and as such "first lady" of the southern Dominion. She will cross Canada and sail by the Ss. Empress of Australia from Quebec April 24 for London.

This charming English lady, who was the Hon. Lusie White, married the eighth Viscount Galway in 1922, and has one son and three daughters. She is the youngest daughter of the third Baron Annaly. While in England she will visit her husband's seat, Serby Hall, Bawtry, Yorkshire.

Another interesting passenger on the Niagara was Lieut.-Col. G. H. K. Skennington—Smyth, brother-in-law of Viscount Galway and a member of the Honorable Corps of Gentlemen at Arms. His wife, who was a sister of Viscount Galway, died in 1930.

Also down on the liner's "who's who" were W. K. Mackenzie of Sydney, well-known wool exporter of Australia; John S. Whithead, cotton spinner of Manchester; A. Warmis-ham, D. Macfarlane and R. Bolton of the Commonwealth Aircraft Corporation of Sydney, bound for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Sprott of Vancouver were passengers returning from a holiday in the Hawaiian Islands. Hon. Mrs. L. Adams and Miss G. M. D. Marker of London were on a world cruise. Hon. John Craig, Colonial Treasurer of the Fiji Islands, will attend the Coronation in London.

Col. G. M. Audain, well-known in Victoria, who has spent the winter in New Zealand, traveled as far as Honolulu aboard the Niagara. He is expected to return here later in the season.

Other passengers aboard the ship were Lieut.-Col. A. W. G. Bishop, Lieut.-Col. E. F. Morrison-Bell, Mr. and Mrs. B. Bull, J. H. Caldwell, Sister Carline, Mrs. M. J. Dangierfield, Mrs. M. Del-Cott, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Farquhar, Dr. and Mrs. J. Flynn, Miss L. E. Geer, J. H. Goldfinch, A. T. Grainger, Mr. and Mrs. G. Guinery, Professor and Mrs. T. Hytten, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Julian, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Kalenborn and Rev. A. J. Kilpatrick.

Arrivals from Honolulu included Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Arledge, Mrs. E. Beach, Miss Ruth Bonar, Mrs. Mable Cannell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Capling, Mrs. E. Cottrell, Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Crut, J. W. Cummins, W. Feagler, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Fredo, Mrs. E. A. Garland, Peter Garland, Miss M. D. Hollick, Miss E. Kimmer, Miss Florence Langlands, Mrs. L. Leviski, Mrs. W. G. Littlewood, Mrs. C. Malone, Miss G. McConnell, Malcolm McFee, Mr. and Mrs. George Richardson, Lieut. John A. Sawyer, U.S.N., and Mrs. Sawyer, Miss F. Sims, Mrs. D. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Sutherland, W. R.
